POLLY FORGIVES
Benign peace again reigns over the Martin Malone-Polly Moran ménage, with the husband promising to be good and Polly agreeing to forgive and forget after Malone staged a rampage in protest against being called "Mr. Polly Moran."

AVIATORS SEEK NEW AIR RECORD

WILMINGTON, Cal., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Sigmund Levenevsky and Victor Levchenko, two of the Soviet Union's greatest fliers, hopped off from Los Angeles harbor in their pontoon-equipped monoplane today on the first leg of a flight projected to take them across the Bering Sea and Siberia to Moscow. Their first stop will be at Alameda, Cal.

Their Vultee single-motored plane glided away from Terminal Island in Los Angeles harbor at 11:15 a. m. (PST).

Their first stop will be at the Pan-American air base at Alameda, across San Francisco bay from San Francisco. After an overnight stop there, they will proceed to Seattle tomorrow for their second stop.

After rippling the waters for a short distance, the plane took off smoothly while a small group of Los Angeles Russians waved them a cheery farewell.

The plane was loaded with 400 gallons of gasoline, a capacity load. Levenevsky was at the controls. He will act as pilot on the projected 10,000-mile flight while Levchenko will be the navigator and radio operator, as well as serving as relief pilot.

TOWNSENDITES LOSE POWER IN MID-WEST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Townsend pension plan candidates were faltering today in returns from Kansas and Missouri primaries and two congressional districts in Virginia provided tests of solid south sentiment of the soldiers' bonus and the New Deal.

In Virginia's third congressional district, David E. Satterfield conceded Democratic renomination to Rep. Andrew J. Montague, a member of congress since 1913. Satterfield made Montague's vote to pay the bonus the principal issue of his campaign.

Nebraska Woman Killed In Crash

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Mrs. Gertrude Clabaugh of Columbus, Neb., was fatally injured in an automobile collision today. A car driven by her husband, H. Clabaugh, collided with a truck and another passenger in the machine, George Jensen, suffered a fractured leg.

MWD Proposes To Double County Tax
DICTATORSHIP IS PROCLAIMED IN GREECE

COUNTY COST WILL DOUBLE UNDER PLAN

Directors of District to Fix Rate at Early Date According to Report

THE CITY of Santa Ana, having in about seven years already paid close to $100,000 in taxes to the Metropolitan Water district as its share in the cost of bringing Colorado river water here, faces the almost certain possibility of spending that much money during the next single year alone.

Costs to Santa Ana, Anaheim and Fullerton, the three cities belonging to the MWD in Orange county, will about double this next fiscal year, it was learned on reliable authority, when the tax rate takes a probable jump from 20 cents up to 40 cents on the $100 valuation.

J. L. Luney, assistant controller in the main MWD office in Los Angeles, and A. L. Gram, executive secretary both admitted the strong likelihood of the doubling of the tax. Gram said that the MWD directors will fix the rate in the near future. He said the reason for the boost is because there are more bonds out now and because of the increase in costs of interest.

Luney said that it is likely the tax rate will be as high as 40 cents next year. In the year 1935-36, he said, the total paid out by the three Orange county cities was more than $91,000, of which Santa Ana paid $46,551.54, Fullerton $26,899.53 and Anaheim $17,548.93.

If the tax is doubled, Orange county cities will pay a total of around $200,000 in MWD taxes.

In Santa Ana in the year 1934-35 the tax rate was 19 cents, doubling the next year until it was 20 cents.

INJUNCTION CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Federal District Judge Jennings Bailey today took under advisement an injunction seeking to halt the SEC investment trust inquiry into affairs of the Equity corporation.

Judge Bailey gave opposing counsel until Saturday to file their final data but said he expects to rule on the case before August 17.

The action, challenging the SEC's legal and constitutional power to investigate the one-time $8,000,000 investment trust fund was brought by Frederick T. Fisher, son of a past administration cabinet member who holds $3.50 in stock in Equity corporation. He sought to prevent the SEC from compelling him to testify under subpoena and to prevent Equity corporation officials from turning over subpoenaed records to the commission.

Find Skeletons Of Two Dead Babies In Grove

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Police today sought to establish identity of two children, whose decapitated bodies were found by a workman in a grove of trees a half mile south of downtown Great Falls.

Scarcely more than skeletons, coroner's physicians said the children had been dead two or three years. They were believed to have been about two or three years old. Cause of death was undetermined.

BOMB CORDOBA REBEL FORCES

MADRID, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The minister of war announced today that the city of Cordoba, in the hands of the rebels, had been bombed by aviators and artillery and that its surrender to loyalist forces was expected momentarily.

The official announcement said that a rebel column which went to the aid of Col. Manuel Aranda, leading the rebels at Oviedo, had been scattered by the loyalists. Aranda had appealed urgently for reinforcements, saying he could not hold out against the government advance.

The vanguard of a loyal column operating in Soria Province defeated rebels at Alentejo and Soliedra and started to occupy Al-

FIND BROKEN FUEL LINE CAUSED CRASH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The Standard Oil Co. of California airplane which crashed into the Great Salt Lake in Utah last fall with a loss of three lives, failed because of a broken gasoline strainer, the bureau of air commerce reported today.

In a formal report to Secretary of Commerce Roper, Director Eugene L. Vidal said an examination of the wreckage of the plane after it was found this spring in 24 feet of water showed that the retaining bar on the left gas strainer was broken. Vidal said this probably caused both engines to fail by allowing air to enter the fuel lines.

ZIONCHECK CHANGES MIND: ENTERS RACE

SEATTLE, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Rep. Marion A. Zioncheck has changed his mind.

"Willing to stand on my record," the congressman said, "I filed for congress, which is what I wanted to do all the time really."

The madcap congressman, whose flight from police station to a mental hospital captured the national fancy, a few days ago decided he wanted to become "America's forgotten man."

He filed yesterday for renomination on the Democratic ticket, opposing six others who filed after his escapades received wide attention.

Security Traders Hear H. J. Arnold

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Promotion and establishment of high standards in the trading division of the security business is the aim of the National Security Traders association. President Henry J. Arnold, Cincinnati, said today at the third annual convention of the group.

About 800 delegates were in Los Angeles at the session, which closes Thursday.

Davis Sapperstein, division head of the Securities and Exchange commission declared last night that the securities exchange act of 1934 has "proved successful."

METAXAS IS APPROVED BY KING GEORGE

'Strong Man' Declares Martial Law, in Face of Communist Threat.

ATHENS, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Greece today joined the roster of Europe's "strong man" states.

Gen. John Metaxas, born on Ithaca island which was the birthplace of Ulysses, became dictator to Greece's 6,750,000 people, under and with the approval of King George II.

In a terse series of decrees, Metaxas declared martial law, dissolved parliament, postponed elections indefinitely and mobilized all workers in essential services such as railways in order that, called to the colors, they would be directly under government control.

Communists Force Action

The action, approximating in its force a legal coup, was taken, it was announced, because of the declaration by communists of a general strike that seemed likely to lead to serious disturbances and bloodshed.

Strong guards were mounted at power stations, gas works and other vital points and all soldiers and police not on guard duty were held in barracks ready for action.

Citizens of Athens as they went to work this morning read in public squares and all principal streets posters—on which the past was not yet dry—announcing the government's action.

Morning newspapers did not appear.

Metaxas learned that communists

SUSPEND REBEL LABOR UNIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The American Federation of Labor executive council today suspended insurgent unions participating in the independent John L. Lewis drive for industrial organization.

The decision was reached after the council considering charges of insurrection held that the unions affiliated with the Lewis wing of the federation had actually rebelled against the parent organization.

It was announced by David Dubinsky, Lewis factional leader on the council that, however, the Lewis bloc would be given 30 days to consider whether it would disband before permanent suspension would become effective.

Ten major unions were involved in the decision of the federation's council exempting the International Typographical union and the International Hat and Millinery Workers union.

These two organizations, affiliated informally with the Lewis bloc, had announced that their unions were not on record in favor of actual participation with the insurgents.

Bids Opened For Hospital Project

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 5.—(UP)—F. C. Amoroso & Sons, San Francisco, submitted the low bid, $191,890, for general work in completing the custodial building for a new hospital, the department of public works reported today.

Other low bids on the project were: Heating and Ventilating, Pacific Heating & Ventilating Co., Oakland, $13,750; plumbing, Scott Co., San Francisco, $28,537; electrical, Central Electrical Co., San Francisco, $5,695.

BROTHER OF PRISONER IS HELD AS 'DOPE' SMUGGLER

Jesse Owens who won the 200-meter race today to win his third championship of the Eleventh Olympic at Berlin. Owens has also won the 100-meter and broad jump titles making his achievement the first "triple" since Paavo Nurmi's in 1924.

NAME TWO NEW S. A. POLICEMEN

IN A MOVE for additional traffic safety on Santa Ana thoroughfares, two additional motorcycle officers were under orders of city council today to go to work for the Santa Ana police department on August 15.

Burnette Lane, 1330 West Ninth street, Santa Ana, caddy master at the Santa Ana Country club, was named as patrolman in the place of W. H. "Bud" Heard, who has been assigned to duty as a motorcycle officer, and William P. Nielsen, former officer but recently employed as mechanic at the city's garage, was named for motorcycle duty. Nielsen's home is at 430 Linwood, Santa Ana.

According to the council's action, taken outside of the regular council meeting, the additional officers not only will lend added traffic protection, needed with the increase of accidents, generally, but will be of assistance in crime investigations. With their assignment, there will be five motorcycles on Santa Ana streets instead of

Horace Head Named Chief Of Bourbons

HORACE HEAD, prominent Santa Ana attorney and staunch New Deal enthusiast, yesterday received notification of his appointment to the office of Roosevelt for President campaign director in Orange county. The announcement came from John Weinberg, San Diego, vice-chairman of the state campaign committee.

In accepting the appointment, Head announced that he will select a committee of Orange county Bourbons to work with him. Definite plans for the campaign in Orange county will be announced in the near future, he said. Head's appointment was made known last night at a meeting of the Anaheim Democratic assembly, where Bourbon candidates for nomination were introduced.

With Stephen Gallagher, president of the organization, presiding, candidates were called upon to present their views of the coming campaign. Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools and candidate for nomination for election to congress on the Bourbon ticket was introduced. In his address, Adkinson frankly expressed doubt as to the soundness of the Townsend Old Age Pension plan, but declared himself open for arguments. His objection, he said, is not to the theory of the plan, but to the mechanics based on the purchasing power of the dollar.

PLAN INQUIRY INTO LIFE INSURANCE CO.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Formation of a stockholders protective committee to make an unbiased investigation of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company of California, declared insolvent recently in a court action seeking to reorganize the company, was revealed today.

All independent stockholders have been invited to participate in the investigation, A. C. Balsh, chairman of the committee, announced. Federal officials and congressional investigators were invited into the inquiry, since the company has 250,000 policy holders scattered in seven western states.

Personnel of the independent stockholders protective committee included Ferdinand R. Balsh, chairman of the board of Southern Counties Gas company; Shannon Crandall, president of the California Hardware company, and H. H. Waggoner, broken.

PLAN TO MERGE CO-OPERATIVES

A NEW MOVEMENT to consolidate all 20 of the self-help cooperative units in Orange county was under way today, and the success of the plan depends on important meetings to be held next week. The Register learned today from William Ruddiman, local co-operative official.

Several hundred Orange county families will be affected by the consolidation, which is designed to bring about a more efficient working basis on self-help projects and to make it possible to offer co-operative workers a complete living through their own efforts, it was stated.

It is possible that the county movement here may spread over the entire state, making a complete state-set-up instead of having the individual units, each practically self-dependent.

Now there are two organizations in Orange county, the United Co-operatives of Orange county, which takes in six units, and the United Cooperative Exchange of Orange county, which has 14 units in various communities of the county.

One of the first, if not the first, self-help cooperative in the state, was organized here in Santa Ana in 1931. Since that time co-operatives have been operating all over the county, engaged in such work as canning fruits and vegetables, printing, warehouse work, gardening, dairying, etc. A new project will be set up soon at the Santa Ana unit at West Fourth and Artesia, for making olive oil for distribution among cooperative members.

No goods manufactured by co-operatives are placed on the open market, it was stated.

SEEK CLUE TO L. A. KILLER IN MEXICO

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Police in El Paso, Tex., today checked a mysterious marriage in Juarez, Mex., in an effort to find a clue in the brutal killing of Mrs. Vanthella Hippe McCandless, who was shot in the apartment of her husband, Wellington McCandless, here last week.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of McCandless, a former resident of El Paso. Dispatches from Mexico City indicated a possible motive for the slaying of the young bride if McCandless was the man who married a woman in Juarez a week before the murder.

The husband, employed as a mine and smelting worker in El Paso about 1930, married a waitress in Kansas City several years later. He was owner of a small cafe here.

Olympic Marks Shattered; Cunningham Runs Dead Heat in '1500'

OLYMPIC STADIUM, BERLIN, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Jesse Owens of Ohio State swept to his third Olympic title today—the first "triple" since Paavo Nurmi's in 1924.

Owens, who had won the 100-meter and broad jump titles, completed the sweep by running to victory in the 200-meter race, duplicating the performance of another American Negro, Eddie Tolson, who won both sprints at the 1932 Olympics.

Owens covered the distance in 20.7 seconds, a new Olympic record.

That was one-tenth of a second slower than the official world record held by Roland Locks of the United States. It was, however, four-tenths of a second slower than the time set by Owens in May, 1935, which is up for acceptance.

Last American Triple in 1904

The last American triples were scored by Ray Ewry, Harry Hillman and Archie Hahn in the 1904 Olympics at St. Louis. Nurmi won the 1500, 3000 meter and 10,000 meter cross country races in the 1924 games at Paris.

Owens' record was only one of four Olympic records made today.

Earle Meadows of the University of Southern California won the pole vault by leaping over the bar at 14 ft. 2 15-16 inches to better the old mark of 14 ft. 1 7-8 inches set in 1932 at Los Angeles by Bill Miller of the United States.

Kenneth Carpenter, also of the University of Southern California, shattered the Olympic mark in winning the discus title at 165 ft. 7 in. Trebisonda Valla of Italy cracked the Olympic record as she swept to victory in the first semi-final heat of the women's 80-meter hurdles.

Meadows, who comes from Fort Worth, Tex., cleared the bar under floodlights, necessitated by

FILIPINO GRAPE PICKERS IN RIOT

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Two Filipino bands of grape pickers from widely different parts of Kern county rioted in Bakersfield last night, police reported.

Workers from the Di Georgi farms in the eastern part of the county and Sierra Vista in the north wrecked an Oriental gambling house in which the fight started and sent Pete Sarmiento, an employee of the establishment, to the hospital with knife slashes. His condition was not regarded as critical.

Police Inspector Robert Knight said that possibly it was a survival of earlier tribal feuds in the Philippine Islands.

L. Tunio and S. Nueul were held in jail on charges of attempting to rob the place during the fight.

NAME TAX OFFICIAL IN NEW INDICTMENT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 5.—(UP)—A second indictment charging Ed T. Ryan, Sacramento county tax collector, with embezzlement in connection with a shortage in his accounts was returned by the grand jury, the district attorney's office reported today.

In the latest indictment, Ryan was charged with embezzlement when a shortage of $11,448 in county tax funds was disclosed. He will be arraigned tomorrow on both indictments, the district attorney's office indicated.

P-T.A. School Of Instruction Will Close Tonight

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS FIRST SESSION HERE

Anticipations of the concluding program of the annual P-T.A. school of instruction to be held tonight in Willard auditorium, are given emphasis by the success of the opening program last night, which drew a large crowd of association members to the auditorium.

Mrs. John J. Mills, president of Santa Ana council Parents and Teachers, had called the annual session and presided over last night's program, arranged for the instruction of the various department chairmen. The De Molay quartet, composed of Ralph Pagenkopp, Stanley Sebastian, Maurice Birt and Darrell Gaebe, had been secured by the music chairman, Lorene Cuddy Graves, and sang several numbers. Children from various recreational centers led in three songs, "Star Spangled Banner," "School Days" and the P-T.A. song.

Mrs. Graves outlined music plans for the coming year's programs, suggesting that each unit session open with singing, preferably "America." "Star Spangled Banner" and the P-T.A. song. She was followed by Mrs. James Glens with instructions and suggestions for program chairmen of the various city units; Mrs. R. D. Flaherty, with similar advice for publicity chairman, and Mrs. Floyd Mitchell, addressing unit membership chairmen. Mrs. Mitchell stressed the importance of attracting new members by giving each some definite work in the organization.

Miss Isabel Durgan, district chairman of children's health, talked on the summer round-up. Mrs. Frank Corey discussed the association magazine, asking that each unit adopt some definite project, and suggesting a 100 per cent sub-

KEN Murray SAYS:

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—New complications have arisen in Europe since the Spanish rebels have entered the Mediterranean, if Italy will help them to cut for a New Deal, I never thought so many nations would be so eager to draw a hand in the game.

Naturally, you can't blame it Duce if he prefers Nationalists as neighbors instead of Communists. . . . At least, when a Fascist raises his hand in salute, he doesn't have a flaming torch in it.

Of course, if Italy should take sides and finally get control of those islands at the entrance of the Mediterranean, John Bull may as well donate the Rock of Gibraltar to that insurance company.

So, it looks like O' Man Mars is getting his war engines ready for another big event. . . . He's certainly got 'em turning up plenty of revolutions.

Mrs. H. G. Becker discussed Founder's Day and reminded members of the annual luncheon and program to be held in February.

Tonight's session will begin at 7:30 o'clock and Mrs. Mills will present the former city P-T.A. president, Mrs. W. E. R. Crawford, now of Fontana, who will conduct the instruction school for officers. All P-T.A. members are welcome to attend these sessions, which are quite as educational and informative for members as for officers.

RYE STALK 6 FEET TALL

SCARBOROUGH, Ont.—(UP)—Andy Thompson, Bendale, farmer has issued a challenge to Canadian farmers to beat his rye growing record. He produced a stalk of rye 6 feet 3 inches high.

According to census figures, about 22 per cent of all deaths in the United States are due to communicable diseases.

maxim preparatory to an advance on Zaragoza.

The column headed by Lt. Julio Mangada, who has become the military hero of the loyalists in the north, planned in co-operation with other government columns a clean sweep of the mountain passes north of Madrid after the capture of San Rafael.

LOYALISTS WIN TWO SMASHING VICTORIES

MADRID, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Two smashing loyalist offensives, one in the Guadarrama mountain fastnesses, the other in the streets of Madrid, were announced today by the government.

Lieut.-Col. Julio Mangada, loyalist hero of the rebellion whom militiamen hail as "the people's general," hurled back rebels gathering west of the capital for a drive, and was believed to have taken San Rafael, an important rebel base 40 miles from the city.

As his men fought their way through the mountains, squads of loyalist police and storm guards in a series of raids that lasted all night, arrested 691 monarchist and fascist leaders hiding in the capital.

The jails were jammed. Even before the raids, loyalist sources estimated that more than 1,000 rebels, army men and priests, were in the city jail and more than 7,000 fascists in the women's prison—now an ordinary jail.

Capture Rebel Leader

Retired army officers, fascists, monarchists and politicians were in the harvest reaped during the night. Included was Melquíades Alvarez, leader of the right-wing liberal democratic party. It was announced that police found him hiding under a bed in his home.

Mangada seemed emerging as a "strong man" on the loyalist side—a side that has lacked outstanding leaders—as Gen. Emilio Mola, rebel commander in chief in the north, on the insurgents' side.

As part of the clean up the government dismissed, by degree of President Manuel Azana, Antonio Canovas, consul at Gibraltar.

The government believed its men have possession of the high way which parallels the Guadarrama and that they will be able to cut off the retreat of the rebels through other passes, such as Navacerrada and Somosierra, unless the rebels retreat at once or succeed in bringing up strong reinforcements.

Order New Attack

Eager to follow up the victory, the loyalists sent orders to commanders in all sectors of the mountains to attack and heavy fighting began at dawn. It was not a major offensive.

Mangada is 59. He entered the army on his 21st birthday, and for nearly 40 years he has been a plain army man. He is thin, quiet, short. He wears horn rimmed spectacles and looks like a school teacher.

On the night of July 17, when the revolt broke, he alone of the higher officers of the Madrid garrison did not go with the rebels. Believing his duty was with the government, he offered his services.

Mangada proved an inspiring leader and his men have held their positions well against trained regulars on the rebel side.

In a surprise weekend attack with the bayonet the rebels advanced their position. Aviators reported that more and more reinforcements were arriving in the mountains and Mangada, believing that the decisive rebel drive on Madrid was impending, decided to strike first.

Details of the fighting have not been released.

Loyalist aviators, flying over Navalperal 15 miles southwest of Mangada's position, bombed a rebel column containing 70 motor trucks and including machine gun and artillery units in addition to infantry, it was announced.

GASOLINE QUERY TO HIT PACIFIC COAST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The department of justice is broadening its inquiry into alleged gasoline price-fixing to include the Pacific coast and possibly other sections of the country, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings indicated today.

At the same time he announced that a federal grand jury investigation into original charges of collusive price fixing in the gasoline industry which resulted in wholesale indictments at Madison, Wis., will be resumed on Aug. 19.

Cummings hinted at the possibility that charges of similar practices throughout the entire country eventually be brought into federal courts.

PLAN GRAPE SCHOOL FOR FRESNO FARMER

FRESNO, Calif., Aug. 5.—(UP)—A grape school offered primarily for Fresno county agricultural teachers will be held during the week of August 17 at Fresno State college, B. R. Denbigh, regional supervisor of the state bureau of agricultural education announced.

JAIL VISTOR UNDER ARREST

neth Morrison and watchful waiting was put into practice by the sheriff's officers.

Yesterday afternoon, Kenneth Bausell walked into the sheriff's office and asked Miss Hall for a permit to visit his brother, Gird, now awaiting trial in superior court August 14, on a charge of receiving stolen property.

Miss Hall issued the permit, which Bausell signed, and quickly called Chief Criminal Deputy Merle Dean to the scene. Officer Dean took Bausell by the arm and escorted him into the jail "without benefit of permit."

Deputy Herman Zabel, head of the sheriff's identification bureau, assisted in the capture of Kenneth Bausell by checking the handwriting found on the packaged shirt and upon the permit given Bausell to visit his brother, identified Kenneth as the man who addressed the package to Gird from San Diego.

Gird was captured several weeks ago through the efforts of John Ortiz, local store clerk, and Santa Ana police, after a chase through city streets. Gird was apprehended with two dresses, apparently stolen from the J. C. Penney store in a shop-lifting venture. Gird's companion escaped when she ran in the opposite direction. A woman who appeared here with Kenneth Bausell yesterday was held briefly for questioning but could not be identified as having been seen here before. She was released.

Kenneth Bausell was arraigned before Judge Morrison this morning and re-jailed after his preliminary hearing was set for August 12 on a charge of violating Section 171-A of the California penal code, relating to smuggling of narcotics into county jail. Kenneth Bausell, who said he had been in the county one day and in California six years, told officers he served time in Colorado state prison for a federal liquor violation.

Because the package containing shirt and morphine allegedly sent by Bausell to his brother was sent through the mails, Bausell also faces federal prosecution. Both brothers assertedly are narcotic addicts, according to puncture marks found on their bodies where they assertedly injected morphine into their veins. The amount of morphine intercepted by the jailers was said to be enough for "two good shots."

GREECE UNDER DICTATORSHIP

declared a general strike in the Athens area and at Piraeus, the port of Athens, in protest against a government decision to enforce compulsory arbitration of all labor disputes.

Metaxas, as premier, called an emergency cabinet meeting and drafted the decrees. He went to the royal palace and told the king, whose complete confidence he enjoys, of the situation. King George at once approved the decrees and they were promulgated officially.

It was announced that the government's drastic action has a pacifying effect and that order was established throughout the country.

S. R. A. OFFICIALS RESIGN POSITIONS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Four high officials of the state relief administration today resigned their positions in a new controversy over California relief policies.

They are: Runo E. Arne, assistant state relief administrator and prominent Red Cross official, N. H. Lewis, director of the division of statistics and surveys, E. G. Bangs, director of the division of operations, Frank Sutton, director of self-help cooperatives.

It was reported the resignations grew out of a dispute involving the economy policy of State Administrator Harold E. Pomeroy and the viewpoints of social workers within the organization regarding administration of their respective departments.

GIRL SCHOOL HEAD SUES FOR DIVORCE

Helen Billingsley Anthony, who keeps a school for girls, today sought a divorce in superior court from Ross O. Anthony, school teacher, whom she married at Placencia in 1930.

The wife charged cruelty. Her husband became morose and sullen shortly after their marriage, when she refused, on advice of an attorney, to deed him a half-interest in her property, she stated. Subsequently he was guilty of violence toward her and her three daughters by a former marriage, she asserted. Once, he knocked her senseless, she charged.

Attorneys Drumm, Tucker and Drumm, Santa Ana, represent Mrs. Anthony.

L. A. GIRL IS FREED OF BLAME IN DEATH

Alma Mae Moffett, 18-year-old Los Angeles girl, was exonerated from blame in the traffic death of her beautiful girl companion.

Miss Alice Muse, 20, also of Los Angeles, when a coroner's jury met yesterday at Brown and Wagner funeral chapel.

Miss Muse died from internal injuries received in an accident on Coast highway a mile west of Huntington Beach the night of July 25. Her death occurred July 29 at St. Joseph hospital. Miss Muse also suffered fractured ribs and vertebrae.

When the steering wheel of the car Miss Moffett was driving began "shimmying," according to testimony, the car went out of control, off the highway, through a fence and overturned. Miss Moffett suffered a broken collar-bone, cuts and bruises in the accident.

LITTLE CHILD IS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Jesus Sanchez, 7, of 726 English street, Santa Ana, was treated at Orange county hospital last night for injured right arm and lacerated face, and sent home, after collision of cars operated by Alice Sanchez, of the English street address, and John F. Vigil, Garden Grove, at Eighth and English streets.

Both cars were traveling north-wardly at the time of impact. The Sanchez car crashed a guard rail at the intersection and stopped against a city light pole, according to investigation of Officers C. V. Adams and Chet Gross.

Reported as injured near the county hospital yesterday in a collision between his motorcycle and an automobile, Thomas Morrissey, about 20, of 1130 East Washington street, Santa Ana, was first taken to county hospital and then transferred to St. Joseph hospital for treatment. He suffered lacerations and injured back.

AVIATORS SEEK NEW AIR RECORD

Flying the northernmost route ever attempted, Levanovsky hopes to reach Moscow within three weeks, flying about 1000 miles a day.

Stops are planned at Seattle, Juneau, Fairbanks and Nome before striking across the Bering Sea for Wrangel Island and Siberia. Their route upon reaching the mainland is still uncertain. At Krasnoyarsk, they either will switch to regular landing gear and turn south toward Manchuria and thence due west to the Soviet capital, or continue with pontoons along the shores of the Arctic ocean to Archangel on the White Sea and thence south to Moscow.

STOP PAYMENT ON INSURANCE CHECKS

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 5.—(UP)—A score or more of California firms stopped payment on checks mailed here in payment of the first half year's contributions to the state unemployment insurance fund, officials revealed today.

Although the percentage of firms which withheld payment or stopped payment on checks already sent was said to be low, the amount involved was understood to be "considerable."

Tabulation of returns, showing the amount received and the number of firms which withheld payment, was expected to be completed tomorrow.

Army In Control In Idaho Strike

OROFINO, Ida., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Striking I. W. W. timber workers offered no resistance today when Col. F. C. Hummel, enforcing martial law in the strike area, threw the main group off the picket lines.

Col. Hummel conferred with strike leaders, told them they would have to discontinue stopping persons on lawful business, tying up traffic, and allowed them to maintain a nominal picket line of six men.

Police News

After report of city police yesterday that a car registered to A. L. Hale of Taft had crashed into two cars Monday night in front of 1060 East Fourth street, damaging them, Hale, who said his address now is Route 4, Santa Ana, appeared at the sheriff's office inquiring the whereabouts of his car. He declared a friend had borrowed it and had not yet returned it.

ORANGE LEGION POST TO ELECT ON THURSDAY

Orange Post 132 of the American Legion will hold its annual election of officers at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in Orange Legion hall, Commander Dave Fairbairn announced today.

The election also will include selection of delegates to represent the Orange post on the County Council of the American Legion and adoption of new constitution and by-laws which will conform in more detail and exactness with those of the state Legion organization.

Officers of the Orange post, now in office, include Commander Fairbairn; First Vice President Dayton Ditchey; Second Vice President Herbert Bryant; Chaplain W. M. Tipple; Adjutant, Treasurer Edwin Westcott; Historian George Carlson, and Sergeant-at-Arms Clarence Johnson.

Installation of the officers to be elected for the ensuing year tomorrow night will take place September 3, when the new officers assume their duties.

NAME TWO NEW S. A. POLICEMEN

three. At present, Officers B. A. Hershey, George Boyd and Ed Lentz compose Santa Ana's motorcycle squad.

A councilman pointed out that, under the present set-up, with each of the three motorcycle officers having one day off per week, for part of the week only two motorcycle officers are on duty. It was pointed out that several cities smaller than Santa Ana in Southern California, have more motorcycle officers on duty for traffic protection. Under the new program, with the two additional men, at least four of the five motorcycle officers will be on duty every day.

Nielsen has had previous experience on the local force and only went to work at the city garage after an accident in which he was injured. Now he is in condition to return to active service as an officer again.

Lane, without previous police experience here, has been a student of police methods for some time and has been attending the police school here regularly for many weeks.

Lane already has gone on unofficial duty as a means of learning the regular routine as radio patrolman and traffic officer, while Nielsen is expected to take over his new duties within a few days. Lane accompanied Officers Heard and Harry Prichard on radio patrol car duty last night.

BOARD CANCELS TAX ON 247 LOTS

The county supervisors late yesterday cancelled approximately $2800 in delinquent taxes upon 247 lots at Corona Del Mar, title to which was recently purchased from the state by the city of Newport Beach.

The city paid $1 per lot, in a move to return the lots to the tax rolls. The city will resell them to private owners.

Delinquent taxes cancelled by the county yesterday average about $15 per lot, according to Tax Collector J. C. Lamb, who laid before the board a resolution which was adopted, effecting the cancellation.

Another batch of 221 lots also purchased by Newport Beach will be subject to tax cancellation shortly, it was stated.

ORDINANCE BANS NEW DAIRY FARMS

A temporary zoning ordinance, restricting an area in the vicinity of Buena Park against location of new dairies, was enacted by the board of supervisors late yesterday as an emergency solution of the problem raised by F. Jungblood's move to locate a dairy between Manchester boulevard and Whittaker street.

The ordinance will make way subsequently for a permanent zoning ordinance now awaiting completion by the county planning commission of its land-use survey, it was stated.

As an emergency measure, the temporary ordinance was declared effective at once. It does not ban dairies already established within its boundaries, but prohibits new ones.

A delegation of Buena Park citizens protesting the Jungblood proposal appeared before the supervisors yesterday.

FAIL TO ACT ON GUARDS REQUEST

Lacking jurisdiction over the matter, the county supervisors late yesterday took no action on a petition from Sunset Beach civic bodies, asking permission to establish a life-guard station at that beach. No permit would be needed, it was indicated.

The petition was signed by George W. Rush, president, and Harry Cresswell, secretary, of the Sunset Beach Chamber of Commerce; Kate Cresswell, president of the Woman's Club, and C. M. Earls, president of the sanitary board.

PRO FOOTBALL MEN VOTE RULE CHANGES

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Minor rule changes adopted to conform with new changes in the National Intercollegiate football code were announced today by the rules committee of the National Professional Football league. Chairman George Halas said they did not affect the characteristic differences between professional and college football.

USE INHALATOR BUT BABY DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Although the Santa Ana fire department's inhalator squad worked desperately for more than a half hour yesterday afternoon, it was unable to revive five-day-old Evanelle Franke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph E. Franke, 510 East Fifth street, said to have been a victim of pneumonia.

The infant, according to the report, had died in its crib from suffocation due to pneumonia, shortly before the firemen were called to lend assistance.

Funeral services will be held at the chapel of Brown and Wagner funeral home tomorrow afternoon, with interment to follow in Santa Ana cemetery.

Local Briefs

Wind velocity yesterday averaged 4.2 m.p.h., according to records at the Santa Ana Junior college meteorological station. Temperatures ranged from 63 at 5 a. m. to 82 at 2 p. m. Relative humidity was 77 per cent at 6 p. m.

CAR COMFORT IS DEMANDED BY AUTOISTS

For several years, Otto Haan has been convinced that Chrysler automobiles provided all that the public could want in the way of quality, efficiency and performance. Today, Haan, who is the Santa Ana representative of Chrysler Corporation, received a communication which further convinced him of the fact that he has been correct in his opinion of the car which he has chosen to make available to Santa Ana residents.

According to Joseph W. Frazer, vice president of Chrysler sales division of the Chrysler corporation, the great success of the Chrysler Six this year is complete vindication of the company's theory that the American motoring public is principally interested in the quality of the ride and performance, Haan said.

"It was our belief in designing the 1936 models that our greatest sales opportunity lay in a car of moderate price and moderate size that would stand comparison with the largest and most expensive cars in the quality of its ride," Frazer told Haan. "In the past, the public has felt that it was obliged to make certain compromises with its standard of performance and riding when buying one of the smaller and lower priced cars. In other words, price was the deciding factor."

"We felt, however, that there

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, MORE CARS CRASH ON STRAIGHT OF WAYS THAN ON CURVES

Two motor vehicles very seldom collide when either driver is making a turning movement of any kind. Complete reports on the acts of drivers show that 9 out of every 10 vehicles involved in fatal accidents were "going straight ahead" at the time the collision occurred; in non-fatal accidents 8 out of 10 drivers contemplated no turning movement whatever, according to information received by National Automobile Club from the National Safety Council.

It was found that 69 per cent of all the injury accidents at intersections occurred when two were going straight ahead on cross streets. Another 8 per cent of the intersection injury accidents occurred as the result of head-on collisions, 11 per cent were rear-end collisions, 4 per cent occurred when a stopped car was struck by another one—all when both vehicles were going straight ahead.

Only 8 per cent of all the injury accidents involved any kind of a turning movement. Left turns caused more trouble than other turning movements; left turning vehicles, where the second vehicle struck was "going straight ahead," were involved in 6 per cent of the injury accidents.

Motorists are apparently lulled into inattention by the fact that at most intersections it is safe for them to proceed straight through without regard to traffic on the cross street. The safe driver, however, always remembers that the next intersection may be the one where there is a vehicle on the cross street approaching at a speed to arrive simultaneously with him.

were many thousands of persons able to afford a large car who really preferred the smaller one, assuming that they could find in it the same degree of luxury, which term includes appearance, comfort, flashing performance and riding comfort. The Chrysler Six is our engineers' answer to this demand. It isn't a small car by any means, as it has a wheelbase of 118 inches, but it isn't a big one, either.

"In this 118-inch wheelbase,

Chrysler has engineered everything that anyone possibly could demand in a motor car in the way of luxury and comfort."

AFRICA FACES WHEAT CRISIS
CAPE TOWN (UP)—A collapse of the wheat industry in South Africa before the end of the year is feared by millers and growers, unless the government intervenes. The Union has a wheat surplus of 1,500,000 bags.

RUBBER INDUSTRY REVOLUTIONIZING NATION'S AFFAIRS

"Just as history making events go almost unnoticed when they are contemporary, so have we little noticed the gradual evolution resulting in a nation on rubber wherever you turn," said W. T. Sebelie, manager of the Goodyear service station, 200 South Main street, today.

"Naturally, you cannot escape observing the automobiles, buses and trailers you see on every street and highway but rubber tires are just as firmly entrenched in other forms of industry and endeavor," he continued. "There is the gasoline bus, the trolley bus, airplane tires, tires on wheelbarrows and on all forms of road machinery."

"Perhaps the latest field to be conquered by rubber is farming. The Goodyear organization has spent much time in practical research developing a complete line of tires designed to increase the efficiency and longevity of farm implements. That such a need was felt is shown by the enthusiastic acceptance of these tires."

"Rubber is not being used alone on the lighter farm equipment but is being adopted enthusiastically by the tractor manufacturers. Farmers and manufacturers alike have adopted the tractor tire because of its improved performance."

Among the improvements Sebelie listed were: more tread depth for traction, more shoulder tread, more center traction, more draw-bar pull, easier cleaning and smoother rolling on highways. The old type tractor, he continued, was barred from most highways but with rubber protection a farmer with fields on both sides of the road may now cross at will. "By leaps and bounds," Sebelie concluded, "rubber is fast springing into every form of industrial, farm and domestic activity."

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, Aug. 5.—Friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Esser are interested in the news of the arrival of a son, Robert Eugene Charleston, to the son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Esser, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Charleston, of Tustin, Mrs. Charleston is the former Miss Isabelle Esser.

HOW TO TREAT IVY POISONING

Ivy poisoning may be caused by three plants—poison ivy, primrose or poison oak. The first thing to do is to puncture with a sterile needle, and drain the blisters. Then wash the parts thoroughly with a thick lather of Resinol Soap. Always wash toward the affected parts, so as not to carry the poison to the healthy skin.

When there are no more blisters, apply Resinol Ointment liberally, and protect the part with a light gauze bandage. Use Resinol morning and night—it relieves itching and burning promptly, tends to counteract the poison, and promotes healing.

Buy a jar of Resinol and a cake of Resinol Soap from any drugist. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 7, Baltimore, Md.

POUNDMASTER IN WARNING TO PAY LICENSES

More than 600 Santa Ana dog owners are delinquent in payment of the $1 license fee for the fiscal year of 1936-37, which began July 1, Poundmaster H. D. Pickering announced today in asking that the fee be paid. He said the city has some 2000 dogs within its boundaries.

"If the fee is not paid within the next few days, citations to the dog owners who are delinquent, will be issued," Pickering stated. The citations provide for an appearance in city court if the delinquent fails to cooperate.

The fee is $1 here, for both male and female dogs. In the county, Pickering collects a 50-cent fee which represents a life-time license registration. The city license fee may be paid at the city hall to City Clerk Ed Vogely or by calling Pickering at 6857-W. For those who wish to call Pickering, the license will be delivered by Pickering as an accommodation.

Picnics and Reunions

The Iowa Association announces its annual picnic reunion in Bixby Park, Long Beach. It will be held all day, Saturday, August 8. Each one of the 99 counties will open headquarters and will install registers. Each college also will open registers and observe "College Hour" from 3 to 4 o'clock. Coffee will be served and silk souvenir badges supplied.

The Iowa Golden Wedding Club made up of Iowa couples married fifty years or more will have picnic dinners and their own program. Judge Edmund Nichols, president of the Iowans will preside and will voice the welcome. Henry Hines will lead all in singing America and the "Tall Corn" song.

President W. W. Campbell extends an invitation to every one who ever saw Colorado to rally for the annual picnic reunion in Sycamore Grove Park, all day, Sunday, August 9. All the usual attractions will be staged, basket dinners at noon and a popular program of music and addresses following.

AUTOMOTIVE NEWS

ANTI-GAS TAX DIVERSION TO BE ON BALLOT

Legal machinery has been set in motion to place an anti-gas tax diversion measure on the November ballot with receipt of initiative petitions by the secretary of state.

More than 200,000 signatures were submitted on the paper requesting a state vote on the proposed constitutional amendment. This aims to prevent for all time the use of gasoline tax revenues for purposes other than highway construction and maintenance. It is sponsored by the California Highways council, and has been endorsed by the Automobile Club of Southern California board of directors.

Major attempts to divert gas tax money have been defeated consistently over a period of years, says an auto club statement, yet many types of diversion have occurred due to stretching interpretation covering the uses of such funds. It points out that organized motorists, motor vehicle interest, many public bodies and even the electorate definitely have indicated opposition to diversion. "The only way effectively to stop diversion is by action of the people," says Standish L. Mitchell, secretary and general manager of the automobile club in the statement.

"Believing that nibbling and grabbing of motor vehicle revenues will continue until definitely prevented by enactment of a constitutional amendment by the people, the club directorate unqualifiedly recommends adoption of this anti-diversion measure."

"Club directors consider that the minor provisions of the proposed measure are entirely fair. While they are opposed by certain interests, they are of slight significance in relation to the main issue. One provides that Diesel, Butane and other fuels used by motor vehicles should be taxed in no greater degree than gasoline. It is designed to prevent discrimination against the efficiency of one fuel over another. It is the same form of taxation as adopted in 35 of the 48 states."

"The provision transferring the receipts of the 3 per cent tax on gross revenues of for-hire carriers from the state's general fund into the general highway fund merely is putting this privilege tax where it belongs."

NEW V-8s AID POLICE OF TWO CITIES

New Ford V-8 police car fleets have just been purchased by the police departments of Los Angeles and San Diego to aid in their never-ending war on crime. Chosen for their economy and durability, as well as speed and pick-up, the new cars are additions to already large Ford V-8 fleets. Above: 50 sedans photographed on delivery to the Los Angeles Police Department with Chief of Police James E. Davis, center, flanked by Ford and police officials. Inset: Capt. Fred A. Therkorn, in charge of transportation, inspects one of the new cars. One of the largest fleet purchases in the last two years, the new units bring the total of Ford V-8s in the city's police service to 267.

The 10 Ford V-8s recently added by the San Diego Police Department are pictured on parade through the beautiful Exposition grounds.

of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, and a close personal friend of Mr. Nash, was principal speaker.

The parade of ancient cars brought emphasis upon the fact that in 1916 there were 186 companies manufacturing 265 electric, steam and gasoline vehicles. Of these only 16 makes have survived.

Among the makes of cars which were prominent in the market in 1916 but which have fallen by the wayside since (embracing a few which came into being later and succumbed) are included: The Apperson, Owen-Magnetic, Roamer, Halladay, Brewster, Briscoe, Case, Chalmers, Cleveland, Cole, Columbia, Abbott-Detroit, Crow-Elkhart, Crowther-Duryea, Cunningham, Durant, Daniels, Detroit, Dixie, Dorr, Elgin, Essex, Ecor, Empire, Flint, Franklin, Gardner, Grant, Haynes, Holly, Inter-State, Jackson, Jeffery, Jordan and Kissel.

Others which now only are memories were the Lexington, Liberty, Locomobile, Lozier, McFarlan, Malibohm, Majestic, Maxwell, Mercer, Metz, Mitchell, Mo-line-Knight, Monarch, Moon, Marmon, Marmon, National, Overland,

SURVEY REVEALS THAT HOT WEATHER IS HARD ON TIRES

Jerry Hall, Santa Ana distributor of U. S. Tires, in commenting on the effects of hot weather on tires, today pointed out that heat doubles worn tire troubles. His information was based on a study of data gathered by the makers of U. S. Tires, who are attempting to determine the months during which tire failures are most predominant. The study showed that during the month of August, when temperatures hit their peak in many sections, tire failure also hit its peak. The hot months of July and September also accounted for a marked rise in tire trouble.

In August, the investigation revealed, there is 65 per cent more driving than in February, but there is 140 per cent more tire trouble. Similarly, in July and September driving increases 60 per cent, but tire failure jumps 130 per cent. So, it is apparent that while the amount of driving naturally increases in the summer months, it does not increase nearly as rapidly as the amount of tire trouble.

Realizing the need for extra tire protection in the hot summer months, many motorists choose this time of year to replace their old, worn tires.

HAWAIIANS DEFEND QUICK LUNCH IDEA

HONOLULU—(UP)—The International Labor office in Geneva, which frowns on the U. S. business man's half hour lunch as unhealthy, would smile if it could see how they do it in Honolulu.

A survey showed that it is not uncommon for executives in Hawaii to take from one to three hours for lunch. Stenographers, however, like their mainland sisters, gulp their food in 15 minutes and spend the rest of their hour shopping, getting their hair fixed or dropping in on friends for the latest gossip.

The Labor office said America's half-hour lunch snatching causes bad digestion, exposes workers to nervous fatigue and promotes low productivity and accidents.

Dr. Frederick E. Trotter, president of the territorial board of health, took exception to the verdict, however, holding that a half-hour lunch is all that anyone needs, provided he does not bolt his food.

LARIMER RUNS SHUTOUT MARK TO 34 INNINGS

NATIONAL NIGHT LEAGUE	W.	L.	Pct.

Olive	10	10	.500

Orange at Santa Ana; Westminster at Anaheim; Olive at Huntington Beach.

Night baseball's new sensation, young Roger Larimer, had pitched Orange into second place in the National league today after completing a record-breaking shutout at the expense of Huntington Beach last night.

Blanking the first-half champion Oilers, 6-0, Larimer ran to 34 the number of consecutive innings he has generated shutout ball.

Last week he handcuffed Olive 5-0, and Westminster 4-0. The last time to score off him was Anaheim, which rang up an unearned run in the second inning of a contest July 24. And in the game prior to that Larimer lost a 1-0 duel to Jim Coates of Santa Ana, an error in the second frame costing him the decision.

Better Than Coates? Larimer is touted as the best pitcher to break into the National wheel since the sensational advent of Coates. Whether the Orange kid has improved to a point where he is better than Coates will be learned here Friday night when the youthful phenoms hook up in a crucial contest.

Color is added to Larimer's pitching by a controversy that rages every time he goes to the box. Opposition managers and players—with Joe Rodgers of Huntington Beach having the floor frequently last night—complain bitterly that Larimer is a "cheater," that he not only "hides" the ball before delivery but also employs a sidearm delivery. Rodgers told Manager "Memphie" Hill of Orange that he intends to protest Larimer and also Coates, believing the Santa Ana also has an illegal motion.

Whatever Larimer does to the ball, the fact remains that rival teams can't hit him. While nobody in authority seemed sure today, officials believe Larimer's 24-inning streak has never been touched in the National division—not even by Neva, Sabela, McDonnell, Cornelius, Stockbridge, Morning or any of the other old heroes.

McKinley Hurls For Oilers. Bill McKinley was a surprise starter in the box for Huntington Beach at Orange. He seemed to have a lot of stuff on the ball but lacked control, wild pitches helping the Cubs.

Orange scored three times in the first on hits by L. Leitchfuss, Struck, Pea and Gunther. The Cubs added three more in the third on Richardson's single, Gunther's walk, a series of passed balls and W. Leitchfuss' hit.

The only time the Oilers had a chance came in the ninth when Thierry and Rodgers led off with singles. Murray filed out and Smith forced Rodgers. Then Paul Neva blasted a low liner down the right field line that "Bris" Richardson held after some-saulting twice. The score:

OLIVE ENDS LOSS STREAK. Olive snapped a seven-game losing streak by bowling over Anaheim, 3-1, at Anaheim. Charley Comstock's home run down the third base line in the seventh was the only run scored off Pitcher Jack Dugan.

Olive got two in the first on Sheldon's double, and singles by Bell, Wallin and Hahne. Gunther's single, Seacord's sacrifice and hits by Gunther and Foltz contributed another run in the third. The score:

It is the second application presented by the group, the first having been rejected. The new proposal calls for a summer meeting of 40 days, starting June 15 next year.

Chairman Carleton Burke, and John A. McNaughton and William F. Roth of the commission considered the application briefly today and indicated a decision would be reached before the end of the week.

LARRY LUTZ MAY PLAY PRO FOOTBALL WITH JIM MUSICK

Larry Lutz has been offered $130 a game for 12 games to play professional football, and that has made Santa Ana's All-America tackle stop, look and listen.

One hundred and thirty dollars a game is Lutz of money, if you get the drift.

The bid—from the Boston Redskins of the National professional league—may cause the big University of California to pass up an appointment as assistant freshman coach at Berkeley.

The California post will not pay anything like that kind of blood; probably not more than $200 for the entire season. It is just a part-time job but Larry fancied the spot because it would enable him to carry some class work on the side, graduate at Christmas time.

Lutz has told the Boston people he won't decide on their proposition until he's fulfilled a promise to play in two big exhibition games.

He's pledged to line up with the college All-Stars against the Detroit Lions at Soldier's field, September 1.

A week later Lutz will appear in the Dallas Cotton Bowl as a member of the Centennial All-Stars. They meet the Chicago Bears. Wes Muller and Bob Reynolds of Stanford, and "Chuck" Cheshire of U. C. L. A. will accompany large Larry to Texas.

Lutz will knock down something like $250 a game in Chicago and Dallas. And there is a possibility of a third conflict in New York in which Christy Walsh's arm will be tested against the New York Giants at one of the ball parks.

In preparation for these games (he leaves Santa Ana Tuesday for a training camp at North-western) Lutz has been working out on the sand at Balboa and Newport Beach for a couple of weeks. When he quit his job in a celery packing plant at Salinas he was "down" to 185 pounds. He's back to 195 now, wants to weigh around 200 for the games in the east. He played the best ball of his life last year at 203.

If Lutz signs with Boston, Santa Ana will have three of its disciples in the big pro league. Jim Musick and Harold Pangle are the ones already in the business.

Musick, the deputy sheriff who played a lot of fullback on the best teams the University of Southern California ever turned out, will be with the Redskins again. So he and Lutz may be teammates this semester.

Musick already has signed his contract; leaves for Boston "in two or three weeks."

Jim says he's under instructions to report at the club's training camp near Boston on September 1. Long the No. 2 fullback in football (some observers even put him ahead of Bronco Nagurski last season), Musick draws a big salary for three or four months' work each fall. It is fat enough to make him take a leave of absence from the sheriff's office.

Pangle is with the Chicago Cardinals. The genial Saint blocking back who went on to make a reputation at Oregon State, thinks the Cardinals will win the pro title this time.

"We have the youngest club in the league," he says. "We were coming fast at the end of the 1935 season and might have won the championship then but for an accident that cost us the services of two of our blockers."

Pangle is too modest to add that he was one of those shelved by the accident, an automobile crash on an ice-covered bridge. Tipton, a running guard from S. C. was the other, so the accident raised havoc with the Cardinals' running attack.

Pangle is getting in shape at Newport Beach by carrying hod, the toughest work imaginable. Like Musick and Lutz, he's heading east this month.

Although it was "Koral Night," Pitcher Coates continued the brilliant slinging that he carried the Santa Ana club far into the stars for the second-half championship. Jim ran his scorching record to 19 by stalling the bats of Westminster's warriors, limiting the Aviators to five bingles. He struck out 14, getting Hemus and Harnois three times.

Tom Denney, ace outfielder of the Stars, returned unexpectedly from Oregon just in time to rejoin the club. He cut short his vacation so as to complete the campaign, will be in Santa Ana Friday night when Santa Ana meets the climbing Orange Cubs at the Bowl. Young, the league's leading swatman, lost a sure hit in the eighth by failing to run out a line drive he hit back at Errington. The ball got away from "Fuzzy" but Young got a life because Starkey dropped Errington's hurried throw to first. Denney struck out three times, taking the third strike every time. And he gave Empire John Ireland three hard-hitting first sack, was out of Westminster's lineup because of a severe case of sunburn.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals led the National league pennant chase again today—thanks to the batting exploits of John Robert Mize, their 2-foot 2-inch, 200-pound first baseman.

Mize, 23-year-old rookie who stole the veteran Jim Collins' job by his sticking talents, and who overnight has taken the National league batting leadership away from teammate Joe Medwick, saw to it personally yesterday that the Cardinals climbed back into first place for the first time since July 12.

St. Louis was trailing, 1-0, in the seventh when Mize's single scored Medwick with the tying run. In the next inning with two mates aboard Johnny hit a home run to ruin the day for Curt Davis and the Cubs. For good measure, Johnny doubled in another of his trips to bat to give him "3 for 4" for the day.

While the Cards and Cubs were battling for the lead, the "dark horse" New York Giants improved their third-place position by defeating Boston, 4-1. The Giants now are only 4 1/2 games behind Chicago.

The New York Yankees stretched their American league lead to 11 games as they defeated the Boston Red Sox, 4-2. Lou Gehrig played in his 175th consecutive game, despite a wrenched back. Chicago's White Sox defeated St. Louis, 8-2, to rise to within a

KORAL DRIVES IN 5 RUNS AS STARS BAG 9TH

Since Friday will be "Jim Coates Night" at the Municipal Bowl, swashbuckling "Bomo" Koral, the other half of Santa Ana's prize battery, took it on himself to make last night "Koral Night."

The big, jovial catcher personally drove in or scored all of the Stars' five runs when they defeated Westminster, 5 to 0, thereby running their winning streak to nine straight second-half games in the National Night Ball league.

A greatly improved hitter, Koral slapped out a long home run to left to give Santa Ana a 1-0 lead in the second inning. The ball soared far over Outfielder Bob Hosack, crashed against the fence on the first bounce.

Koral singled over first base in the fourth frame, scoring "Nan" Coates from second. Coates having singled and moved up on an error.

In the sixth, Koral came up with Tommy Young on third and two away. "Bomo" slapped a line drive to left-center and came all the way around when Hosack kicked the ball halfway back to the infield. That made the count 4-0.

HITLER NERVOUS AT OLYMPICS

Goering's Uniforms Last Word; Streicher Grotesque ETIQUETTE WORRIES WOODRUFF

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Here we are again walks over to shake hands in the Olympic press box, a rookery which rides the rim of the vast stadium. Around us, tier on tier, are more than 100,000 persons. Below us, a vivid pattern of green and red, is Reichsportfeld, dotted with the athletic strength of the world.

If you don't mind (even if you do it won't stop me) let's put a pair of 14 power glasses to our eyes and focus on the highlights:

In the honor lodge, in the center of the first row, sits Der Fuehrer, flanked on the right by Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, little Joe Goebbels and Julius Streicher, the "bald eagle of the non-Aryan batters," and on the left by Hermann Goering. Der Fuehrer Hitler is a nervous man. He crosses and recrosses his legs, twiddles his trick moustache and drums nervously with his fingers on his knees. His face is dull. He seldom smiles, never laughs. He appears tired.

Humberto's Manners Bad Humberto needs one more year at Grotto or St. Marks. His manners are atrocious. When he wants to attract Hitler's attention he jabs Adolf in the ribs with his elbow, and he points incessantly. Humberto, six feet and better, and handsome, is very enthusiastic. Even when the women discuss throwers are working—and women discuss throwers resemble nothing so much as Minsky burlesque girls overcome by age and fat—he gesticulates excitedly.

Herman Goering is a genius. Otherwise, how can you account for the uniform he wears? Yesterday he would seem to have reached the peak in his outfit as commander of the air force. But today he has on an egg shell and gray combination which would make Paquin and Lucien Delong quit their teeth in envy. The only explanation of Herman is that when he orders his uniforms he starts with a gilded lily as a base, and works up from there. Streicher can be dismissed with one inspired bit of description: He looks very much like a peeled boiled egg in a linen duster.

Stella Walsh "Has-Been" Let's swing the glasses on the start of the women's 100 meters final. Stella Walsh, the fading champion, is worried. It's written all over her face as she digs her starting holes with a shovel. Next to her, sure and smiling, is the girl who displaced her as the fastest femme—Helen Stephens, the country girl from Missouri. Helen laughs as she readies herself for the run down the straightaway. She knows she is tops. Just before the starter, who wears the long white coat of a butcher, drops back to give his commands, Hel-

And there are a thousand other swings of the glasses, but we must be off to the weight-lifting arena, for we hear that strange things are happening over there, such as Turkish strong men weeping when they fail to lift a railroad train's axle ten meters. And so until tomorrow, "muchs ut," if you'll allow me to slip into my Berlin patois.

Champion at Work And when he lands it is out past the white flag marking the previous best jump. The stadium goes mad, for the champion came through like a champion.

The classes are on the 400 meters hurdles. It's Glenn Hard

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

RIDING HIGH —

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. — The federal reserve board figure on July production will not be announced for three weeks yet, but unofficial private estimates indicate it will hit a record post-depression peak of about 106.

This means factory output has reached a mid-summer level equal to the average for the year 1927, when Coolidge prosperity dwelt amongst us and nearly everyone fancied himself as an investor who would live in luxury on dividends from the progress of the country.

Now, however, no one here is singing boom songs, or chattering about cars, garages, chickens or pots.

One reason for the restraint may be evident in the government's monthly business chart, which indicates somewhat unsatisfactory deficiencies in employment, payrolls, freight loadings, sales, building and prices.

CHART —

Year	Industrial Production	Factory Employment	Payrolls	Frt. Load.	Dept. Bldg.	Wholesale Sales	Con. Prices
1929	100	100	100	100	100	100	100
1930	86	86	86	86	86	86	86
1931	74	74	74	74	74	74	74
1932	64	64	64	64	64	64	64
1933	56	56	56	56	56	56	56
1934	79	79	79	79	79	79	79
1935	90	90	90	90	90	90	90
1936	106	106	106	106	106	106	106

Note—The figures are good, of course, but, in one statistical respect, not as good as they may appear to be.

The base of 100 for all the figures except prices is the average for the three years 1923-25 (prices are based on 1926 as 100). The figures are also generally adjusted for seasonal variations.

Thus, while actual June production was about the same as that of May, the adjusted index climbed two points because production usually slides off that much in June. The same applies to the June-July increase, which really represents no actual increase, but merely a continuance of the June level.

So the peak summer period, in effect, is really an unseasonal continuance of strong spring business. But it is the first one we have had since the depression started and enough to soften the despondency of many an ardent pessimist.

And it developed in the midst of a political campaign and in the face of a drought.

CAUSE —

The widely advertised reason for this extraordinary summer manufacturing is steel, but there are other unnoticed reasons. For instance, textiles have not declined this summer the way they usually do. A rise in cotton prices has driven in considerable business and there is a strong retail demand for cotton goods. Rayon, too, is operating at record levels. Lumber is up a little and autos are off probably less than seasonally.

Of course, steel is the biggest answer to the situation, but no one knows exactly why. The possibility that John L. Lewis might call a strike if he could organize a union may have stimulated some of the current demand, but certainly not a substantial portion of it. Steel is operating at about 72 per cent of capacity in this heat, because the machine tool industry wants steel; the foundry equipment industry wants it; automobiles are taking more than was figured. Even the drought-afflicted agricultural implement industry is still demanding it in unexpectedly large quantities.

Railroad buying likewise is continuing, not so much in rails as in equipment. (There were more new freight cars ordered at the end of June than at any time since 1930. Orders at the end of June amounted to 25,311 cars for Class One roads, compared with orders of 2427 a year ago — ten times more this year.)

STEEL FUTURE —

The facts show every steel-consuming industry, except canning, is taking more steel. The demand has been steady now for about four months, with operations around 70 per cent during all that time. (That makes for good profits.)

General Dawes is out with a prediction that the rate will hit 100 before the year is over. Few here agree with him. The general belief is the General is over optimistic. However, he fooled everyone once before. He predicted heavy goods demand would pick up exactly 6-12 years after the depression started, and it did.

Most economists will be satisfied if the present rate is increased about 10 per cent or more and maintained through the fall.

SELLING —

Strength of sales is attributed largely to the bonus. With the government handing out a billion in cash, the effect would hardly be otherwise, although no worthwhile estimate is yet available to show just exactly where the veterans spent their money and how much.

The July department store sales index of 91 is 15 per cent over a year ago, and, of course, in some degree reflects the increased volume of employment and payrolls.

BUSINESS FOR JULY INCREASES ON WEST COAST

Business activity in Orange county and other places in the Far West advanced during June to the highest level for that month in six years, the First National bank in Santa Ana reported today in its monthly release of the Index of Western Business.

The index now stands at 88.4 per cent of the 1923-25 average level of business activity, as against 86.5 in May and 71.0 in June last year. The June figure for 1931 was 84.7 and for 1930, 105.3. Department store sales, bank debits, and freight carloadings all advanced from May to June, while industrial production held even.

In contrast with the unfortunate drought damage in many other large grain-growing regions, the bank also reports, field crops in California this year promise for the most part to equal, and in some cases to exceed, last year's abundant harvests. The only important exceptions are oats, barley, and hops. This year's acreage of cotton is 68 per cent larger than last year's, which yielded a 239,000-bale crop. Wheat and rice show substantial increases; and flaxseed promises three times the harvest of 1934, its first year of commercial production in California.

BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, Aug. 5.—Mrs. E. F. Johnson, Rodney Jackson and Orville Johnson have returned from a trip to Norco.

Mrs. Harry Horn has returned following a visit in National City at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stowe.

Miss Marie Brenner, Miss Edith Page and Johnnie Page have returned following a vacation at Yosemite.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moreland, of Hollywood, were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mosey.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bacon were dividend disbursements and government expenditures.

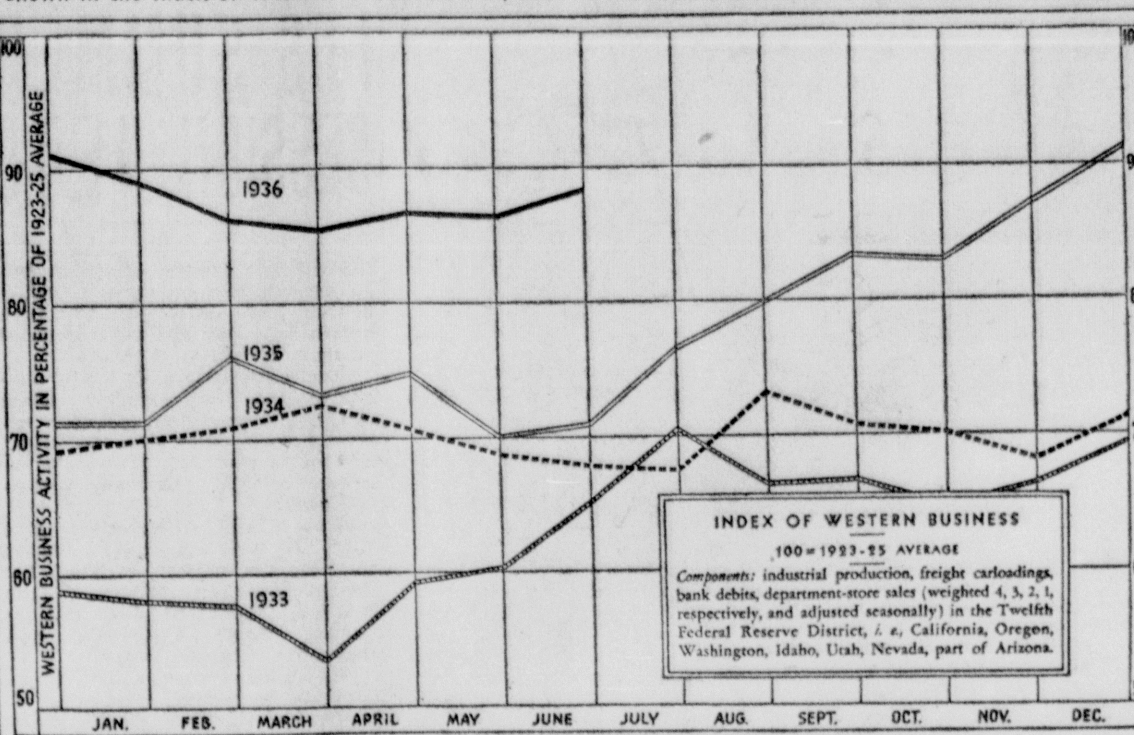

PRICES — The cost of living is up and will go higher. Price increases are not confined to agricultural products affected by the drought. The prices of textiles, metals, building materials, chemicals, drugs and other miscellaneous things have increased lately.

The greatest increase naturally is in farm products. They were up to 81.4 for the week of July 25, as compared with 74.4 in mid-May. This increase is wholly attributable to the drought.

Foods have increased almost as much, from 77.4 to 81, and for the same reason. All other prices are up nearly a point for the same period, from 78.8 to 79.5.

BUSINESS INDEX SHOWS INCREASE

Western business activity advanced during June to the highest level for that month in six years, as is shown in the Index of Western Business below, released today by the First National bank in Santa Ana.

HEAVIEST SEAS OF YEAR POUND COAST TOWNS

Unusually heavy seas yesterday noon and last night pounded the shores of beach towns from Balboa to Long Beach, resulting in little damage to property, according to reports on file in coast town police departments.

The only actual damage reported in Orange county occurred at Huntington Beach, when huge ground swells swept away a portion of the boat landing near the end of the municipal pier. Officer Bert Harding, Huntington Beach police department, yesterday afternoon took measurements of the swells, and found that they averaged 17 feet in height. They were breaking approximately 1500 feet from shore, he reported. Repair work on the damaged boat landing was effected yesterday afternoon.

Seal Beach police reported little damage, although the huge breakers pounding the shore cut away a long strip of bathing beach. Newport and Balboa presented a scene of inland lakes today, following the heavy tides yesterday. The waves cut away a portion of the built-up beach, creating a wall between pools and the shore line. The miniature lakes are present from several hundred feet south of the pier to a point near Newport Beach.

The heaviest series of ground swells occurred during the period of high tide at noon yesterday. Fear was expressed at that time that the six foot tide at 9:40 p. m. would result in greater damage. However, the waves last night were not as severe as those earlier in the day.

DISABLED VETS STAGE PIGNIC THIS EVENING

Disabled veterans are expected to be out in large numbers tonight when the annual picnic will be staged at Jack Fisher park, named in honor of their late leader, according to V. L. Brown, commander of Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World war.

Although nomination of officers for the coming year will demand a brief business session, the evening is planned for the entertainment of disabled veterans and their families who are asked to bring their basket lunch and table service. Coffee, cream and sugar will be furnished by the organization, according to Brown.

This will be the only meeting of the month with regular schedule being resumed next month. Mrs. Esther Kemper, Anaheim, vice-commander, will be in charge for the auxiliary in the absence of Mrs. Pearl Laub, commander.

GARDEN GROVE

GARDEN GROVE, Aug. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton entertained with a dinner party recently at their home on Huntington avenue in honor of Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Vrederburg, of Berkeley. The guests included former classmates at Pomona college. Dinner was served buffet style out of doors followed by various games. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. B. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bell, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kroeger, of Whittier; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Campbell, of Covina.

A family reunion was held recently at Cedar Pines Crest, with the following present: Mrs. Angie Thomson and daughter, Inez, and son, Clarence, and Miss Rosemary Thomson, of Santa Monica; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thomson and son, Walter, of Garden Grove.

A group of relatives gathered Sunday at Point Fermin for a picnic dinner given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Peterson and two children, of Bakersfield, who are spending a week in Long Beach. Others in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hall and son, Donald, of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Hall and family and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Hall, of Garden Grove.

Miss Marie Payne has returned from Camp Bethel, where she spent the week in attendance at the Brethren church Bible conference. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Chaffee and daughters, Ethel and Winifred, returned Sunday from Lake Arrowhead, where they spent several days.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Tobias, accompanied by Mrs. Herman Thorpe and Mrs. Irene D. Pringle and daughter, Mrs. Robert White, of Santa Ana, returned Sunday from a motor trip to Seattle, Wash., where they visited relatives and friends for three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chaffee and son, John D., visited Sunday afternoon with Dr. and Mrs. Merton Hill at Laguna Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Edwards and daughter, Margaret, returned Sunday from San Francisco, where they visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Gordon, who are the parents of twins born July 23. The babies were named Everett Eugene and Patsy Margaret, each weighing over four and one half pounds. Mr. Reed is attached to the U. S. S. Concord and as soon as his wife and babies are able to travel they will come here to be with her parents.

Mrs. Harold Chaffee and two children, of Santa Barbara, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chaffee.

Wilbur Wedel, of San Bernardino, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wedel, of Sixth street.

Mrs. William Coplin and son, Billy, spent several days recently with her sister, Mrs. Joe Happer, at Covina.

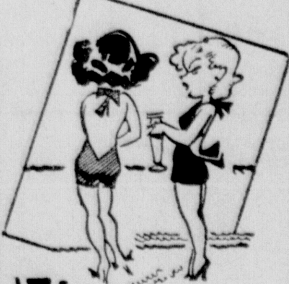

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Martin and son, Omar, left Monday by machine for Paradise, Kans., where they will visit relatives of Mrs. Martin. They expect to be gone a month.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5.—Mutterings: I'd like to fry in lye peas agents who continually bray about Mary Pickford's "perennial youth," when neither is Mae Murray. Frantic urge: To slip Gene Raymond a set of hair-curling irons, then run like all git-out for the next county. Frederic March announces discovery of a use for rubber checks: Give them to professional panhandlers. Silly notion: To challenge Greta Garbo to debate. What would a war picture be without a sweet, frightened young man to die for his country?

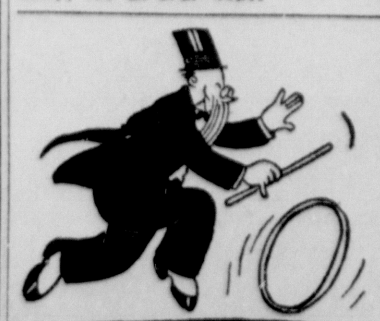

try in reel two?
Imaginable hilarious evening: Listening to Mae West and the ghost of Cleopatra discuss the weaknesses of man. Producers of color-pictures would be oh-so-wise to devote more attention to elimination of frightfully painty-looking closeups. Wandering muse: What does Carole Lombard think about when she amorously kisses ex-husband William for movie scenes? Ambition: To hear a beauty contest winner say, "I'm not interested in a career."
Someday somebody may be confronted with the confusing task of choosing one of the five Dionne babes to supplant Shirley Temple. Job I'd like to hold: Tape measure in the casting office when Sam Goldwyn selects fifty matched beauties for the Eddie Cantor chorus. Veree Teasdale's smile make me think of a candle flame behind a block of ice. Growl: Will somebody tell me why capable Madge Evans is relegated to play class B pictures?

It has not been many years since Grace Moore lived with two other girls in a tiny New York hall room. They were so crowded that when one girl had a caller, the remaining two climbed out the fire escape until his departure. One of the girls is now married to the French multi-millionaire who manufactures Dubonnet wine. No one seems to know what has become of the third; she had apparently disappeared completely, but if you know, will you write to me so I may forward the information to Miss Moore?

Talent contracts between stars and clubs are now being written two ways, with or without gambling. Sophie Tucker, for example, had a deal with a Chicago club by which she was to draw $3000 a week if the spot permitted gambling; $2000 a week if there was no gambling. She drew $3000! Among the former European noblemen now in Hollywood is a Count Phillip D'Esco, once of the Roumanian court and a close friend of King Carol. When King Carol was in France with his paramour, Madame Lupescu, D'Esco sought to sell the pair to various motion picture companies for a single production. He says King Carol was fondless at the time and would have gone into the movies for a song. Not one film chief could see him as a screen possibility. Shortly afterward Carol was recalled to his throne, and any picture in which he might have appeared would have been worth millions to its owner.

Ted Healy and his stooges have again rocked this colony. Their latest spree is a "job telephoning debauch." They obtained numbers of various stars, and called to offer these players fanciful jobs. Simone Simon, for instance, was offered a $35 a week spot in a San Francisco burlesque theater. Simone almost smashed her telephone hanging up. Healy next offered Gloria Swanson two weeks in a Portland night club at $50 a week and two meals daily. That is better than Gloria is doing in pictures right at present, but she rejected the offer vehemently. Last reports, Ted was trying to get Greta Garbo's number, but even Greta's studio bosses do not know it.

JAYSEE CLOSES ITS SUMMER SESSION HERE

Numerous students enrolled in the summer session of Santa Ana Junior college from outside Orange county have returned to their homes following a six-week period of study at the local Jaysee.

Final examinations officially concluded the hot weather session last Friday and the following are among those who were to return home this week for a month's vacation prior to the approaching fall term:

Marie Taecker, Brawley; Etta June Leisure, Needles; Juanita Quarles, Claremont; Virginia Lee Ewing, Corona; Betheme Marie Hedrick, Arlington; Jean Martha Carver, South Pasadena; and Jacqueline Eckert, Compton.

Final grades were mailed to all students yesterday, according to H. O. Russell, dean of the junior college summer session.

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, Aug. 5.—The trip of the Ingenues, of which Miss Immamiae Hensley, of Midway City, is a member, of Mexico City, has been postponed owing to labor troubles there.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hurd and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Strickland spent Sunday in Long Beach as guests of Mrs. Van Butler.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Rutherford, who with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Davenport, and daughter, of Los Angeles, recently returned from Capistrano Hot Springs, where they have been vacationing, entertained a group of relatives and friends in their home Sunday. The party included Mr. and Mrs. John Rutherford and daughter, Madelyn, of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. Don Darwin, of Norwalk, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jones, of Brea.

Plasterers began work Monday on the new residence of the Clyde Days at the intersection of Roosevelt and Jackson streets.

Charles Benedict spent the week end in the mountains assisting relatives in the building of a mountain cabin and in his absence Mrs. Benedict and Lee were in Long Beach with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keller and family spent Sunday at Alhambra, where they visited relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keller will be guests Saturday evening at a dinner dance given by the 40 et 8 of American Legion at the Roosevelt hotel in Los Angeles. They go as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Curnutt, of Huntington Beach.

Mrs. Bertha Schmidt and son, Charles Schmidt, and her grandson, William Schmidt Jr., of Corona, who is with her for a week, motored to Yucaipa Sunday. They were guests in the William Schmidt home.

A picnic at Anaheim park Sunday observed the birthday anniversary of Miss Amy Leith. In the party were cousins from Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Hunt and son, Stewart Jr., and Miss Leith and her father, E. E. Leith.

Walter Baker of the Naval hospital at San Diego, spent Sunday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Walters.

Freedom of Judgment

PAST OFFICERS NIGHT STAGED BY USW CAMP

Calumit Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, celebrated a birthday at last night's meeting, had a Past Commanders' night, added a new member, draped the charter in memory of one deceased comrade, took steps to secure the October Citrus Belt U. S. W. V. club picnic and listened to a report of the social meeting held at Laguna Beach on July 23.

Calumit camp was instituted August 5, 1922, in the old Knights of Pythias hall on East Fourth street and the anniversary was celebrated at last night's meeting by holding a Past Commanders' meeting wherein the past commanders present filled the chairs and performed the ritualistic work.

The following past commanders took part filling the assigned positions: Walter W. Tantlinger, as commander; Charles E. Waffle, as senior vice; Charles W. Winter, as junior vice; Charles E. Dixon, as adjutant; William Kelsey, as quartermaster; Frank P. Rowe, as officer of the day; Sherman Glaze, as officer of the guard; Marriott C. Cooper, as chaplain; Charles W. Kincaid, as senior color sergeant; and Warren R. Du Bois, as junior color sergeant. The work was well performed but much fun was created by charges of alleged mistakes.

Olin Cargay, of Costa Mesa, was elected to become a member of the camp and Commander James A. Randel reported the death of Comrade Edward E. Snyder, of Corona at the Sattelle hospital, on August 4. Chaplain William Hannah draped the charter for a 30-day period in memory of the fallen comrade. The social was in the dining hall, with the band playing George V. Area blew taps. Al P. Dresser, captain of the firing squad, with other members of the squad left this morning for Corona accompanied by the chaplain and other members to conduct a military funeral assisted by the officers of Charles E. Dixon camp, of that city.

Department Graves Registration Officer J. Edward Ketchum, of Bakersfield was one of five welcome visitors. He is taking a vacation at Long Beach fishing for tomcod.

The camp voted to have the adjutant communicate with the Citrus Belt U. S. W. V. club and put in a bid for the October picnic and to hold it, if successful in having it awarded, in Irvine park. This camp will be joined as sponsors by Warwick camp, of Fullerton, and the three camps of Long Beach.

Chaplain Hannah reported on the social affair held at Laguna Beach, on July 23, attended by about 50 members of the camp and auxiliary, many of whom live at Laguna Beach. The social was in charge of Junior Vice Hanigan C. Moberly, Quartermaster William Brown and Chaplain William Hannah who were vacationing there at that time.

Comrade Edward E. Snyder, the deceased member, joined Calumit Camp on December 5, 1922. At that time he was a working carpenter at Fullerton but was later stricken with paralysis and has since been a helpless invalid. He was taken to Sattelle a week ago yesterday and died on Saturday. He and his family had been living at Corona for many years.

FORMER SPY ENJOYS LIVING IN BRITAIN

LONDON—(UP)—One of the most daring international spies of this generation is turning into an ordinary middle-aged Englishman, a retired colonel with no more excitement in his life than his garden and his radio.

He is Col. Victor Konstantine Kaledin, late of the Russian Imperial Ataman Guards, who has, during his career, acted as a secret agent for Germany, Russia, Italy and Holland. He is an inconspicuous householder in the village of Ilfracombe, and in a few weeks he will be naturalized British subject.

Kaledin speaks 15 languages, and it was on account of his linguistic skills that he was recruited to join the Russian intelligence department. He was sent as a spy into wartime Germany. After the war, when the Russian revolution made it impossible for him to return to his own country, Colonel Kaledin worked for various secret services.

COLLECTIVE BAGAINING IS DEBATED AT FORUM MEETING

If collective bargaining be wrong at all, then its practice is just as wrong for farmers, business men and bankers as for laborers, debaters at last night's Forum for Political and Economic Education in the Junior College building agreed, while disagreeing upon other points.

Subject of the debate was, "Resolved, that collective bargaining, as practiced in the United States, raises the standard of living of Society as a whole," with Deputy County Auditor Ernest Wooster taking the affirmative and W. H. (Ted) Blanding, the negative, Dr. Merrill W. Hollingsworth presiding as chairman.

"The chambers of commerce are collective bargainiers just as much as are union laborers and paid organizers often are brought from the outside for chambers of commerce as well as for labor unions," Wooster declared. "It is wrong, iniquitous, but a common practice. Bankers have been known to organize for the purpose of lending money at uniform rate. Farmers—orange growers—organize as collective bargainiers to pro-rate the crops."

"Certainly," he continued, "it is not so strange that the laborers should catch on and also organize for collective bargaining."

Worker, Employee, Aided
Wooster argued that collective bargaining has benefited both the employer and the worker through its demands for increased efficiency and therefore, with increased production, but added that collective bargaining results in a smaller total of employed persons. "The American employer, when he was forced through collective bargaining to raise wages, found it necessary to use more machinery and therefore, fewer men," Wooster explained.

The speakers agreed that collective bargaining as they were discussing it, related only to organization to obtain personal, selfish advantages, not to those forms of organization, of which there are many, which are of altruistic nature.

"Supreme Court Justice Brandeis has said that competition is wasteful but that monopolies formed by collective bargaining groups are more wasteful," said Blanding in arguing the negative. "Every bargaining group is selfish; each union is looking out for its members. But in this debate, we cannot look at benefits in term of a short period of time or certain group but in terms of posterity and the people as a whole."

Create Disadvantage
Whenever anything, such as oranges or other produce, are destroyed through collective bargaining, to keep up prices, it creates a disadvantage to the nation as a whole, according to Blanding. Under theoretically normal production, he said if 2500 persons in a city of 30,000 are given 10 per cent raises, then 27,500 persons would have to give up a share of their own incomes to pay the cost of increased salaries for the 2500. Collective bargaining, if it insured the workers all they wanted, would destroy initiatives, he stated. Society as a whole, being based upon unity, no individual or group of individuals can receive any more than they produce without Society as a whole suffering. Centralizing of power, in any form, is dangerous because it leads toward monopolies, he added.

Wooster declared collective bargaining may take a form other than effort to raise wages and may therefore be beneficial. He pictured England's working conditions before the industrial revolution when women and children were worked almost under slavery conditions and added that some forms of collective bargaining benefit Society as a whole through improved living conditions obtained by Blanding contended that collective bargaining by bankers who permit creation of a false debt structure, has caused more misery than wars. He argued that Orange county might benefit from control of orange shipments and prices but the consumers, "who might get oranges only on Thanksgiving and Christmas instead of frequently," would suffer.

General Discussion
During the general discussion following the debate, and to C. H. Stearns' contention that all advantages and advancements come from collective bargaining, and nothing worthwhile is accomplished by individual effort, Miss Julia Budong answered that it was her opinion "we must not confuse organization with collective bargaining" which may be as different as altruism and selfishness. She added that, since practically everyone is engaged in collective bargaining, there is little advantage to any particular group because other groups act as a stalemate. One man argued if the United States would do away with such collective bargaining as forced wages higher than they would be in free competition, then the United States could better compete with its products on foreign markets.

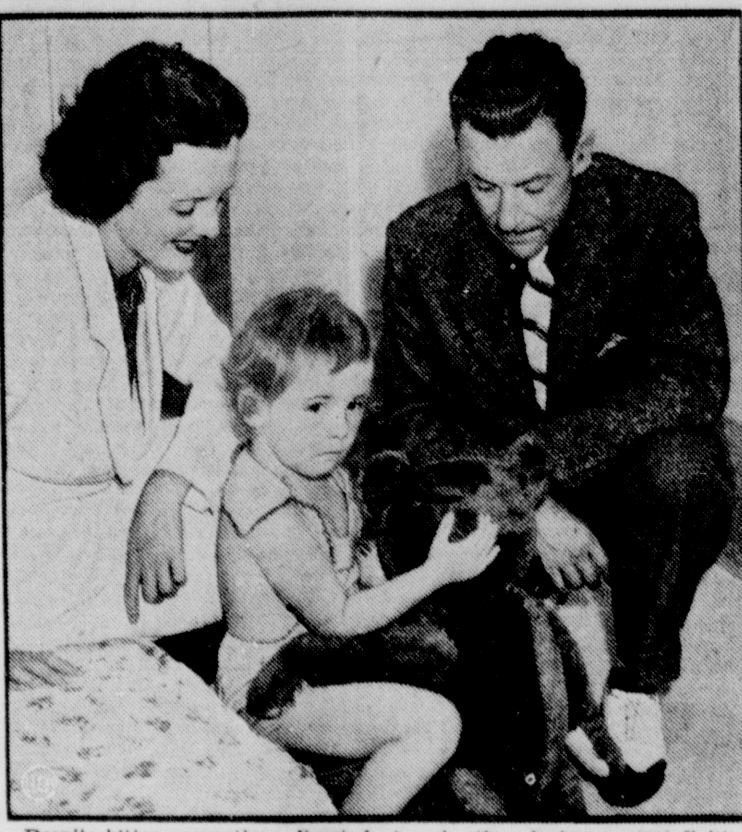

Dr. Hollingsworth said next Tuesday night's Forum subject would be selected by the committee on arrangements and announced later in the week.

The week, The Forums, purpose of which is an exchange of ideas for enlightenment, meet each Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Junior College building, on North Main street.

JAPAN IMPOSES NEBRASKA PAYS SPECIAL TAXES $5-$30 GRANTS IN RAIL ZONES TO 21,000 AGED

DAIREN, (UP)—Conclusion of the Japan-Manchukuo extraterritorial treaty has been followed by imposition of special taxes upon Japanese residing in the South Manchukuo Railway zone.

It was announced that imposition of the taxes was necessary to equalize the tax burden of Japanese within and without the zone. The extraterritorial treaty exempted Japanese within the zone from Manchukuo taxes until 1935.

The taxes collected from Japanese in the railway zone go to the Japanese imperial government. Japanese outside the zone pay their taxes to Manchukuo.

There are 150 categories of taxation in the new order, which became effective July 1, including levies on money and property lent by, sale and manufacture of commodities, electric and gas supply, theatrical and other public amusement businesses, printing and publishing, restaurants, public bathhouses, barbers and hotels.

HIGHER PRICES FORECAST BY U. S. AGRICULTURAL BUREAU

Higher prices for a number of farm products are forecast by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in their latest report to the farm advisor's office here. These include butter, cheese, eggs, and the better grades of cattle. Lower prices are in prospect for potatoes, hogs, the lower grades of cattle, feeder lambs, poultry, and wool.

FARMERS PILE UP PROFITS IN EAST VIRGINIA

NORFOLK, Va., (UP)—The depression is over, as far as farmers in the Virginia Tidewater area are concerned.

The crop of potatoes and tomatoes is the largest in years, and at current high prices is pouring millions of dollars into the pockets of Eastern Virginia farmers.

Potatoes are selling at from $4 to $9 a barrel, and farmers with large acreage are reaping a golden harvest. Many farmers have produced 2,000 to 4,000 barrels.

Tomatoes, too, bring from 40 to 50 cents a small basket.

Not only the farmers are enjoying prosperity, but so are hundreds of workers picking, sorting and wrapping the fruit. They are able to make from $3 to $19 a day. One man packed 424 boxes in one day, and received $19.96. A girl wrapped 354 boxes of tomatoes, and her check for the day for $14.16.

Canadian Port Has Profitable Season

MONTREAL, (UP)—The greatest volume of tonnage in the last seven years passed through Montreal, second largest North American port, during 1935, according to the annual report of the harbor commissioners.

A total of 5,725 ships, representing a tonnage of 8,518,042, visited the port. Imports reached 11,654,425 tons, an increase of 328,621 tons over 1934. The port received a revenue of $4,041,830, an increase of $475,323 over the previous year.

"GHOST TOWN" ONCE RICH
GARRISON, Utah, (UP)—The remains of the "ghost town" of Frisco, Utah, which in 1875 had a population of 5000 and produced $100,000,000 in silver, now stands vacant.

WALNUTS NEED WATER BEFORE HARVEST TIME

An adequate soil moisture supply just before the harvest period is essential to securing the best results in harvesting walnuts, according to recommendations just released to the walnut growers of Orange county by Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg.

Next month will see the harvest season in full blast, says Wahlberg. Provision should be made now for applying irrigation water to the walnut orchard, if it is found at this time that the moisture content of the soil is not sufficient to carry the trees through the harvest into the latter part of October or November.

Insufficient moisture during harvest induces excessive leaf drop, shriveled hulls and increases the number of "stick-tights." Plenty of available moisture allows the nuts to fall free from the hull, and thus reduces the tendency to mould in the husk.

It is desirable to make the application of water early this month in order that the ground may have time to dry and be smoother before the first picking of nuts.

It is estimated that the walnut crop this year in Orange county is about 60 per cent that of a year ago. The size of the nut, however, appears to be larger. The heat wave of two weeks ago may have caused a few burned nuts and stick-tights on the tops of the trees, according to field observers.

Rector Disputes Evolution Idea

MONTREAL, (UP)—The theory of evolution was denounced as a "vile conspiracy to rob the world of its faith in God" by Rev. Dr. D. E. Hart-Davies, noted Scottish rector, in a lecture here.

Dr. Hart-Davies, who is rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Edinburgh, declared that Pithecanthropus was only created out of the crown of a skull and bones that might easily have belonged to another creature altogether.

"It is a rotten philosophical theory without any real foundation," he said. "No scientist dare attempt to demonstrate evolution by actual experiment."

"If there were any truth in that theory the world would be full of creatures one-fifth man and four-fifths chimpanzee."

Helen Overton
Wedded Monday
To San Diego

Announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Overton, 1409 South Garnsey street, of the wedding Monday, August 3, of their daughter, Miss Helen A. Overton, to Robert D. Moore Jr., of San Diego, will meet with a world of interest here among close friends of the bride.

The marriage was an event of quiet simplicity on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in San Pedro. Miss Overton and Mr. Moore were accompanied to the little beach city by the latter's brother, Russell Moore, and Mrs. J. C. Hesse, who served as best man and matron of honor.

The bride wore a smart outfit in blue tweed with all dress accessories in gray, and a great cluster of gardenias pinned to her shoulder. Vows were exchanged before the Rev. William Garvie, pastor of San Pedro Presbyterian church, in his manse home.

The young couple returned to the Overton home where they will remain until the end of this week when they depart for San Diego where Mr. Moore is with the Navy. Mr. Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Moore of Dallas, Texas, and continued his education at the Christian college after graduating from St. Mary's Academy High school. His bride graduated from Santa Ana High school.

Informal Announcement

First informal announcement of the Moore-Overton wedding was made last night by the bride's sister, Miss Kathryn Overton, who was hostess to members of the bridge club to which the two sisters belong.

Miss Overton's hospitality was staged in Dixie Castle where a chicken dinner was served. Her bride sister was not present, and when dinner was concluded, the hostess created much excitement by announcing the Monday nuptials.

The whole merry party immediately repaired to the Overton home to offer good wishes to the bride and groom.

In the party with the hostess, Miss Kathryn Overton, were Mrs. Russell Daly, Mrs. Frances Lacy, Mrs. Kenneth Hill, Mrs. Joseph May, the Misses Edna May Helm, Helen Allen, Rose Allen, Margaret Young, and two special guests, Mrs. Floyd Brassfield of Tacoma, Wash., and Miss Vivian Miller, a cousin of Mrs. Daley and Miss Helm.

Club hostess observes
Summertime Theme

Attired in appropriate beach costumes, bridge club members took part in a party of summertime appointments last night when Mrs. Paul Reynolds was hostess in her home, 1211 West Ninth street.

Tallies in clever nautical theme were distributed for bridge play in which Miss Dorothy Dunbar and Miss Marjorie Berkner held first and second high scores. The two winners were rewarded with beach accessories.

Picnic service was utilized late in the evening, when tables were spread with paper cloths and a delectable supper was served. In the group with the hostess were the Misses Dorothy Dunbar, Marjorie Berkner, Helen Demetriou, Florence Turner, Mary Jean Du Bois, Frances Parks; Mesdames Carleton Smith, Allan Carstensen, Clyde Higgins, Lee Hasseliger and two guests, Mrs. Russell Goetting of this city and Mrs. J. V. Schwerin (Virginia Herschler) of Los Angeles.

Eastern Star

Past matrons and past patrons of Hermosa chapter O.E.S., together with many visitors, were accorded honors Monday night at a meeting of Hermosa chapter O.E.S. in Masonic temple, with Miss Henrietta Bolling and W. G. Lewis presiding.

Mrs. Victor Soper was introduced as a new member by affiliation. Visitors included Miss Marie Meyers, Tulare; M. E. Watson, Pomona; Mrs. Stella Meyer, Milbank; S. D. Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. James, Mrs. Elizabeth Plinn, East Orange, N. J.; Mrs. E. W. Childs, Norfolk, Neb.; and Mrs. C. A. Knowlton, San Antonio, Tex.; Miss Lucille Walker, Garden Grove.

On the reception committee were Mrs. Roscoe Wilson and Mrs. W. Thomas. Mrs. Ruby Drake took charge of the entertainment, which included a spelling match. Announcement was made that the reception originally scheduled for August 29 in honor of Deputy Grand Matron Mrs. Jeannette Tarpley, has been postponed until some time in September.

Refreshments were served by Leona Miller, Lucille Cameron, Zeta Edmunds, J. A. Harvey, Everett Mather and J. P. Jacoby. Members' night will be observed at the next meeting, when a drill team from Los Angeles will put on the program.

Pioneer Couple Anticipate
Golden Wedding Observance

Leaving tomorrow for their cottage in Forest Home, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Stafford will spend a quiet vacation, returning to their home at 118 Edgewood Road in time to make final preparations for celebration of their golden wedding anniversary August 23. They will be accompanied to the mountains by Mr. Stafford's mother and his sister, Mrs. R. J. Blee and Mrs. Carrie Flagg of this city.

Although Friday, August 21 will be the actual anniversary of the wedding, the celebration will be held on the following Sunday, when it is expected that the three sons and one daughter of the couple will be here for the day.

The sons and daughter, with their families, include Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Stafford and children, Donald, Le Roy, Dorothy and Nelson Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Palmer and children, Adele, Norman, Frances and Molly, of Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Stafford and son, Chester, Jr., of North Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Stafford, Los Angeles.

Quiet Wedding

Miss Lizzie Mader became the bride of E. P. Stafford August 21, 1886 in the Petaluma, Calif. home of her sister, Mrs. W. A. Platt, who now lives in Los Gatos.

Another sister, Mrs. J. H. Hunt of Oakland, also was present for the ceremony. The newly-married couple lived in Petaluma from August until February of the following year, when they came to the Southland, and Mr. Stafford became identified with the harness business. Santa Ana, Olive, Los Angeles and Hayward were communities in which the young couple made their home from time to time before coming back to Santa Ana in 1902 to take up residence on Edgewood Road.

Pioneer Family

Santa Ana had been the boyhood home of Mr. Stafford, whose parents came to Orange county in 1873, when there were few other white settlers. They made their home on a large tract of land, Rancho de Santiago, bounded on the north by First street, and on the south by what now is McFadden street.

At the death of his father, the late N. O. Stafford, E. P. Stafford, then a youth of 15 years of age, returned to Petaluma, his birthplace. Shortly after his return north he met his future wife, also a native of Petaluma.

Now retired, Mr. Stafford formerly was connected with banks of the community, first with the old Commercial bank, and then the Farmers and Merchants Savings bank. Both he and his wife are members of First Presbyterian church, and in the early days, Mr. Stafford was active in the W. C. T. U.

Former Member Visits
Mayflower Club

Old friendships were renewed at Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the Mayflower club in the E. W. Cochems home, 223 East Chestnut street, when Mrs. Roy Butler, a former Santa Ana and Mayflower member, now living in Sacramento, Mrs. Helen Lyle, once a Santa Ana resident but now of Hollywood, called during the afternoon.

Mrs. Cochems and Mrs. Laura Sanborn were co-hostesses at the meeting which was devoted to a pleasant social time with members following their own inclination as to playing bridge or sewing. Mrs. J. W. Parkinson and Mrs. A. T. Perkins invited the women to be their guests on the afternoon of September 1 in the Parkinson home, 226 East Edinger street.

Those present in addition to the hostesses and the two unexpected callers, Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Lyle, were Mesdames E. E. Frisby, F. W. Sanford, J. W. Parkinson, A. A. Maryme, A. T. Perkins and son Roger, Harvey Springer of San Bernardino, Amelia Perkins, Fannie Cunningham, P. T. Isherwood, V. S. Shidler, R. E. Smith, two Bellflower members, Mrs. C. W. Copeland and Mrs. Sara E. Maryme, and two guests, Mrs. Ella McKean and Miss Carrie Glaser.

Birthday Joys

A happy way of celebrating the tenth birthday of her little daughter, Rose Marie, was devised by Mrs. Alcide L. Meric, 809 North Sycamore street, who planned a theater party for the children.

This was made a matinee event of Sunday, and Miss Rose Marie had the pleasure of escorting her playmates to the Broadway. In the party with the young hostess were Patricia and Bobby Hacker of Anaheim, Jack Brady, Eleanor Kilkeny, Ruth Succop and Larry Harter.

After the theater party the young people returned to the Meric home where Mrs. Meric had birthday cake and other dainties ready for their enjoyment and there Rose Marie opened her many birthday gifts.

Church Societies

First Methodist

Reports on summer camp activities were given Monday night following a dinner meeting of First Methodist Quarters in the church social hall.

Standard Bearer Camp Radford and Queen Esther camp, at Idyllwild were reported on by the Misses Pauline Williams, Irene Williams, Mary Ruth Fairies, Marjorie Randall, Joy Townsley and Margaret Davies.

Present at the meeting were the advisor, Miss Ethel Coffman and the Misses Pauline Williams, Irene Williams, Mary Ruth Fairies, Marjorie Randall, Joy Townsley, Margaret Davies, Harriet Ulrich, Florence Ulrich,

Committee Is To Have Changed Date

Because of a conflict in date with the Orange County Federation of Women's Clubs, the meeting of the flower show committee of Orange County Garden club has been changed to Thursday, August 13, according to announcement made today by Mrs. J. E. Paul, president of the club. The meeting will take place Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock in Valencia ballroom, as first planned.

This committee meeting will be an important one, devoted to completion of plans for the first county-wide flower show, to be staged by all garden clubs and club garden sections, on September 12 and 13 in Valencia ballroom. The committee comprises representatives of the various groups co-operating in presenting the flower show. Wednesday, August 12, was the original date set for the called meeting.

WOU and your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Butterworth and daughter and son, Stella and Ted, expected to leave today for their home in Victoria, B. C., after a visit with Mrs. Butterworth's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clayton, 615 Fairview avenue. The two families spent some time in the Clayton cottage in Laguna Beach.

Mrs. H. D. McIlvain, 2448 Riverside drive, and her little granddaughter, Betty Jo, daughter of the Howard McIlvains, West Edinger street, are home from a two months' stay in the east. They were guests in the home of Mrs. McIlvain's mother, Mrs. Mary Keith, who celebrated her 83rd birthday anniversary soon after the visitors arrived. Mrs. McIlvain and her granddaughter also spent some time in Indianapolis, Ind., with relatives.

Several Pennsylvania guests have been spending the past month in the A. U. Hiett and L. B. Hiett home on Pauline Road, the party including Elder J. C. Corder with Mrs. Corder and their daughter, Ruth of Mt. Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. Harley Neil and granddaughter Dorothy of West Springfield; Miss Ethel Roberts of Monessen, Penna., together with Ray Hiett of Earp, Calif.

Dr. Chad Harwood and his bride, the former Miss Jacqueline Sherard of Los Angeles, have returned from their honeymoon trip, and are at home to their friends in an attractive apartment at 1524 North Sycamore street. Dr. Harwood, whose office is located on South Main street, resumed his practice today.

Mrs. Marshall Northcross Jr., 209 1-2 West Tenth street, and sister, Miss Lena Thomas, 1423 North Broadway, are entertaining their cousin, Miss Hazel Lewis, a teacher in a New York orphanage school, who will be here until the close of the vacation months. Miss Lewis, who was born in South Africa, spent much of her life in Florida before her college work and teaching in New York.

The Rev. Herman Landis returned yesterday from La Verne, where he was called Sunday evening by the sudden illness of his father, J. A. Landis, who was reported considerably improved today.

Mrs. E. M. Beatty of Siloam Springs, Ark., has arrived for an extended visit with a close friend, Mrs. Harry M. Smith, 1416 North Broadway.

Announcements

Townsend club No. 11 announced today that plans for a social to be held this week have been discontinued, and a new date for the affair will be named. Instead of the party, a regular meeting will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Franklin school.

First Trip East

When Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Stevens and their daughter Betty Joanne, with Mrs. Stevens' mother, Mrs. Ethel Hutchison, 1309 Maple street, left at the end of the week for Lansing, Mich., it not only was the first trip east for Mr. Stevens, a native Californian, but it was the first time Miss Betty Joanne has ever ridden on a train.

Mrs. Ella Faupel and her daughter, Doris Lorraine, of this city and Miss Hazel Carr of Orange, together with Miss Opal Brownlow, daughter and sister of Mrs. Hutchison and Mrs. Stevens, accompanied the travelers to Los Angeles and staged a little dinner party in their honor, with a special array of gift packages to be opened en route east. Leaving Los Angeles on the Challenger, the Santa Anas planned the journey to include sightseeing in Salt Lake City and Denver and the Royal Gorge trip.

On the homeward journey in a new automobile, stops will be made with relatives in Illinois and Missouri. Mr. Stevens will then resume his work in Bakersfield where his wife and daughter will join him before school opens.

U. S. W. V. Auxiliary
Celebrates Birthday
Anniversary

Instituted August 5, 1922, Calumet camp and auxiliary U. S. W. V. held a gala birthday party last night in Knights of Columbus hall, with past presidents of the auxiliary filling the various stations which preceded other events.

The local U. S. W. V. groups chose the name Calumet when it was suggested by Comrade Harry S. Tubbs, who had participated in a battle of that name in the Philippine islands. Comrade Tubbs became first commander of Calumet camp August 25, 1922.

Mrs. Hazel Hall, auxiliary president, appointed the past presidents to their stations last night. Serving as president for the evening was Bertha Helmer, who headed the organization in 1926; senior vice president, Nancy Reed, who was president in 1925; junior vice president, Estelle Dresser, 1923; chaplain, Edna Hannah, Hollywood, 1922; patriotic instructor, May Glaze, 1927; historian, Eleanor Shaw, 1934; secretary, Bertha Dixon, 1928; treasurer, Elizabeth Moberly, 1932; musician, Elva Haunt, 1930; reporter, Elizabeth Erickson, 1931; first color guard, 1935; second color guard, Myrtle Waffie, 1934; third color guard, Marie Stamba, Fullerton, 1935; fourth color guard, Katherine Reagan, 1933. Others serving were Elvira Kurtz, conductor; Alice Gay, assistant conductor; Addie McCornock, guard; Susan Wyne, assistant guard.

Each president was called upon to tell an outstanding experience of her term of office. Each officer received a corsage bouquet, which had been made by Elvira Kurtz. Ice cream and cake was served at the close of the meeting.

Business Matters

The charter was draped in memory of Florence Becker, past national president. Plans were made to cooperate with the Community chest in staging its fall drive. Invitation was extended the auxiliary to a reception in Pomona August 21 honoring Laura Henkle, department guard. Manila day will be celebrated August 16 when the Citrus Belt association will give a picnic at National Military Home in Santa Ana.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Emma King Wassum will entertain the sewing circle in her Laguna Beach home August 12. Appointed to serve on a committee for a camp and auxiliary covered-dish dinner August 25 were Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Reagan, E. Patmor, Frank Rowe, Henry Sands.

Visitors introduced were Winifred Ketchum of Bakersfield, past department president; Maude Granger, Grace Stevens, Minnie Upham, Ella Higley, Long Beach; Edith Watson of Fullerton, past department treasurer, and Maggie Householder, president of Fullerton auxiliary.

The next meeting will be held August 18 at 8 p. m. in the hall.

Former Santa Anan
Visits Here
En Route From East

Returning from an extended trip east, R. H. Blee of Bishop spent several days in this city with his mother and aunt, Mrs. Ida Blee and Mrs. R. J. Blee, 211 Orange avenue.

Mr. Blee was accompanied on his trip east by his daughter, Miss Fairy Blee, who came here for a short stay with her grandmother and then continued to San Marino to visit with school friends. She expects to begin her junior year studies in the fall at Occidental college, her father's alma mater.

The father and daughter travelers went to Dallas, Tex., Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Pa., and many other points. They spent some time in Knoxville, Tenn., with Mr. Blee's brother, Clarence E. Blee, who is chief engineer of the Tennessee Valley Authority company. Construction work on the new dam is in his charge. Both R. H. and Clarence Blee had their early schooling in this city, attending Polytechnic high school.

R. H. Blee has returned to Bishop, where in the fall he will resume his duties as principal of the high school.

Other recent visitors of Mrs. Ida Blee and R. J. Blee in this city were Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Blee and daughter, Barbara, of San Diego. Mr. Blee is a grandson of Mrs. Ida Blee.

Miss Lindsay Presides
At Shower Honoring
Sorority Sister

Among social affairs in which Miss Marjorie Lindsay is taking active part in the short interval before her departure for Berkeley to enter upon her senior year's studies, was a bridal shower at which she entertained in the home of her mother, Mrs. A. J. Lasby, 315 East Seventeenth street, complimentary to Miss Gertrude Menges of Fullerton.

Miss Menges is soon to wed Allen McClure of La Habra and in compliment to the approaching nuptials, Miss Lindsay assembled a group of Alpha Chi Omega sorority sisters for the bride party and gift shower. Prizes in the game were won by Mrs. Robert Finch of Fullerton and Mrs. Sylvia Beebe of La Habra. The two winners had prominent part in the tea hour also, for they were asked to preside at the pouring of tea, a rite accomplished at a prettily decorated table.

An array of unusually lovely gifts fell to the fortunate lot of the party honoree from her assembled friends who included with the hostess Miss Lindsay, the Misses Virginia Taylor and Ruth Warner of Santa Ana; Mrs. Ted Corcoran, the Misses Phyllis Redfern, Pearl McCullay, Frances Barber, Carolyn Pritchard, Regina Walberg and Phyllis Corcoran, Fullerton; Miss Cornelia Randall, Whittier; Mrs. Glenn Wein, the Misses Jean Wilson and Dorothy Gibb, Long Beach; Mrs. Margaret Blower, Berkeley; Miss Eloise Ward, Taft; Miss Genevieve, Tustin; Miss Barbara Wilson, La Jolla; Mrs. B. Beatty, Balboa; Miss Marian Sharp, Santa Paula; Miss Marie Schelling, Hollywood; Miss Gladys Mackee and Mrs. Margaret Schultz, Los Angeles.

Young People Complete
Plans for Alaskan
Voyage

Expecting to sail for Alaska August 11, four young people of this community have all in readiness to leave tomorrow by automobile for Seattle, Wash. They are Miss Leola and Kenneth Schroeder, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schroeder, 2227 North Lincoln street; Miss Velma and Robert Witt, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Witt of Orange.

As members of the tour to be conducted under auspices of California Christian Endeavor Union Travel department, the young people will sail from Seattle on the Northwestern. They will stop at Juneau and other points en route to Skagway, from there going inland to Lake Bennett. Among other places to be visited are a number of mission stations.

At the close of the 11 day Alaskan voyage, the four travelers will make a leisurely trip homeward. They will spend some time in White Salmon, Wash., motoring on south through Portland, Ore., down the Columbia Highway. They will visit Crater Lake, and continue homeward by way of the Redwood highway, returning home late this month.

Miss Schroeder will begin her second year studies at Junior college in the fall, while her brother, Kenneth will be a senior at Polytechnic high school. Robert Witt will enroll as a freshman in junior college. Miss Witt, who has been teaching in Porterville, is a graduate of Redlands University.

Gold Star Mothers

Santa Ana chapter No. 4, American Gold Star Mothers, has been called upon to produce an officer for the National organization, a fact which brought special celebration to this week's meeting in Veterans hall, where Mrs. Emma Christensen was congratulated upon her election to the office of national historian, which brings such honor to her chapter.

Election was a feature of the annual convention held in Detroit this summer, and various interesting phases of the three days' session were recounted for the chapter by Mrs. Iona S. Sharp. During the business meeting plans were discussed for the September meeting, and since the date falls on Labor Day, the meeting has been postponed until September 15 unless further notice is given.

For the remainder of their time together, the Mothers placed quilt blocks and did other needlework, varied at noon by the served of a covered dish menu.

Present were Mesdames Martha Elliott, Iona Sharp, Sarah Marvin, Fannie Lamb, Jennie Graves, Hattie Perkins, Emma Christensen, Edith Reynolds, Myrtle Stull and Bessie Windham.

Hostess Gives Luncheon
Mrs. A. E. Kohler, 1601 Willits street, was hostess at the latest meeting of Rainbow circle, whose members were entertained at luncheon. The table where they were grouped for the inviting menu, was charmingly centered with Cecile Bruner, roses and arranged with other decorations to give emphasis to their delicate pink.

During the afternoon of needlework, guests especially enjoyed being with the sister of their hostess, Mrs. Sadie Beall of Canoga Park, who is convalescing in the Kohler home.

Those present in addition to Mrs. Kohler and Mrs. Beall were Mrs. L. O. Warne and Mrs. Stanley of Covina; Mrs. Scott Torrens and Mrs. M. Adamson of Tustin, Mrs. L. Walkinslaw, Mrs. J. Thompson and Mrs. R. B. Kelchner and son Donald, of this city.

Camp Registration
Deadline Comes
Friday

Tomorrow and Friday will be final days for Girl Scouts to register in readiness for activities at Camp Rokili August 20 to September 3, it was announced today by Mrs. R. R. Russick, camp director.

Registration should be made with Mrs. Russick, 1345 South Flower street; Mrs. E. T. McFadden, 2121 Greenleaf street, or other Girl Scout leaders.

Although the complete staff of counselors has not been named as yet, many of the leaders already are making plans for special camp routine. Miss Clara Spelman will have charge of singing; Miss Elizabeth Neusett of Riverside will give swimming instruction, as she has been doing in the past for Riverside Scouts.

Miss Ruth Knowlton of Fullerton will be camp manager, with full charge of the dining room; Miss Charlotte Mock will direct dramatics; Miss Vanche Plumb will be nature study director, assisted by Miss Evelyn Kent in teaching astronomy; Miss Catherine Chapman and Miss Kay Go-rath, craft.

There will be a doctor and a nurse in camp at all times, it was announced.

Dental Studies

Dr. Clayton Kaps, son of Dr. F. O. Kaps, 1316 North Baker street, expects to leave Friday from Los Angeles on the Sunset Limited for San Francisco, where he will enroll at the University of California dental college. He will work for his master's degree in orthodontics.

Young Kaps has been spending the summer in this city, having returned home in June after receiving his D.D.S. degree from the university. He visited recently with friends in Los Angeles, and attended "Anthony Adverse"

Friendly Group Meets
For Luncheon and Bridge Play

In entertaining at luncheon and contract yesterday afternoon in her home, 821 Lacy street, Mrs. Herbert T. Stroschein called together a few close friends who have met from time to time during the summer months for just such delightfully informal affairs as she had planned on this occasion.

There was the charm of many flowers, with the jewel hues of zinnias predominating, and there was the pleasant luncheon interval for which guests were grouped at two card tables, each smart with its linen, silver and china arrangement. In the bridge play which followed, and for which the place cards served for recording scores, Mrs. Edmund West was successful player, and received the prize.

Mrs. Stroschein included in her guest list, Mrs. Raymond Terry of Anaheim; Mrs. Ronald Crookshank, Mrs. Arthur Wade, Mrs. Edmund West, Miss Eleanor Crookshank, Mrs. Russell Sullivan, Mrs. Stanley Norton and Mrs. William Floyd Croddy.

There will be a doctor and a nurse in camp at all times, it was announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Thomas and their daughter, Miss Gladys Thomas, have been entertaining an interesting group of cousins this week in their home, 914 South Main street. The guests are Captain R. L. Bates of the New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell, N. M., with Mrs. Bates and their daughters, the Misses Mo-

Arthur Pryor and his band will play a program designed to depict the place of the band in American life of today in the "Cavalcade of America—In Music" over the Columbia network today from 4 to 4:30 p. m.

Homer Rodeheaver, who formerly led the hymn singing at religious revivals conducted by the late Billy Sunday, will make his second appearance as singing leader of the audience at the theater from which the Palmolive Community Sing is to be broadcast over the Columbia network today from 5:30 to 6 p. m., P.S.T.

Just give Gracie Allen the name of an animal and you will be surprised to see what she can do with a popular song. Long famous for her "Mother Goose" rhymes, Gracie has now taken up the serious business of writing songs. She will reveal the latest fruits of her new talent during the Burns and Allen broadcast over the nationwide Columbia network today from 8:30 to 9 p. m.

Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle and Budd, the world's hindmost authorities on the drama, will offer a futuristic version of "Romeo and Juliet" as a feature of their Town Hall Tonight antics over the NBC-Red network at 8 p. m. today.

A unique interpretation of the popular song "Stepping Out to the Opera" will be presented by Kay Thompson and her Rhythm Singers as the feature of the Chesterfield program over the Columbia network today from 5 to 5:30 p. m.

Meredith Willson will inaugurate a new series of programs for a coast-to-coast NBC-Blue network audience tomorrow between 5:30 and 6 p. m., presenting his orchestra and five singers—Rallina Zarova, Russian soprano; Saunders King, Negro tenor; and the Williams Sisters, harmony trio.

On the "Passing Parade" heard over the Columbia Don Lee network tomorrow between 8:30 and 8:45 p. m., John Nesbitt will discuss interesting people and happenings of today and yesterday.

Gale Page will sing "You Turned the Tables 'Am I Asking Too Much?" and "His Majesty, the Baby" during her broadcast tomorrow at 2:35 p. m. over the NBC-Blue network.

"Perpetual Motion," a new composition by Carroll Martin, trombonist in the NBC Chicago studios, will be played as a xylophone solo by Harry Budinger during the Roy Shield Revue over the NBC-Blue network tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. (KGO off 4:45).

Finals in the 1500-meter run and in the 110-meter hurdles claim first interest in the report of the day's Olympic Games at Berlin which Bill Henry, special CBS sports commentator, will make over the Columbia network tomorrow from 12 to 12:15 p. m.

Brain Twizzlers

By Prof. J. D. Flint

Twizzler Vance gave the ol' Professor a new kind of problem for today. Stimulate your imaginations because this will tax your abilities heavily.

The problem is to fill in the blanks in the following paragraph with four letter words, each word having the same four letters and no two words alike. Here you are: "A old lady, on bent. Put on her and away she went. my son, she was heard to say. What shall we do to today? How do you like that?"

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler

Bill sold one dozen for one cent and had three eggs left. Bob sold four dozen at once cent per dozen and had two eggs left. Jack sold seven dozen at one cent per dozen and had one egg left. Each sold left-over eggs at three cents per egg giving a total of ten cents each.

SILVER ACRES

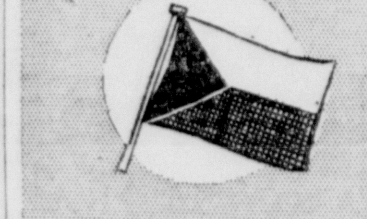

SILVER ACRES, Aug. 5.—The Rev. and Mrs. Carl Jungkeit and children, Dorothy Yvonne and Dwight Elwood, went to San Diego Monday for a visit. They were accompanied by Mrs. Cora Coe and her sister, Mrs. Ida A. Bates. The latter, who has been staying with Mrs. Coe since the recent death of their sister, Mrs. Dora Allen, is returning to her home in San Diego. Mrs. Coe will return with Mr. and Mrs. Jungkeit.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baker, who have been living on Figueroa street in West Santa Ana, have purchased the Murphy place on West Second street and are residing there.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

DEMOCRAT AMONG DICTATORS

COUNTRIES ruled by dictators practically surround Czechoslovakia today, but still a democratic president, with democratic and liberal ideals, remains its guiding spirit. He is Eduard Benes, disciple of that other great Czech patriot and leader, Dr. Thomas G. Masaryk.

When, late in 1935, Masaryk retired from the presidency of the country that he had organized during the World War, Benes naturally became its next president. He had become popular as Czechoslovakia's foreign minister, and had been known among diplomats as the cleverest of all. Now all his efforts are bent toward maintaining a liberal and free democratic government for his people, despite the pressure of surrounding dictatorships.

Benes was born on May 28, 1884, of peasant parents. Clumsy at farming, he was sent to school, then to college, where, in a football match, he broke a leg. That broken leg saved him from war service for Austria-Hungary, and gave him the opportunity to work with Dr. Masaryk for the independence of Czechoslovakia.

On his 52d birthday, Czechoslovakia issued a stamp in this great diplomat's honor.

LA HABRA CITY COUNCIL PLANS TAX RATE CUT

LA HABRA, Aug. 5.—Assessed valuations were increased 25 per cent by the city council at its meeting Tuesday evening and it is the intention of the council to lower the tax rate accordingly. Assessments have been made on a very low assessed valuation of about 44 per cent of the estimated actual value.

Reports of the auditors were read at the meeting showing that the city was in good condition financially.

Permission was granted E. M. Jackson on behalf of the Roosevelt Club to use the city hall council chamber for an organization meeting of the club on the evening of August 10.

Resolution No. 246 was passed in which the city accepted a grant deed from Mr. and Mrs. William Gluth to a parcel of land located on West Central avenue and north of the city limits.

A discussion was held concerning purchase orders and requisitions to be made out by various departments of the city and it was decided to have the city clerk buy purchase order books in triplicate. All department heads desiring to purchase materials and supplies for their department will present signed orders to the clerk who in turn will issue requisitions.

A communication was read from the city of Escondido, asking for a copy of the ordinance under which La Habra operates its water system, as to rules and charges.

Word has been received here of the death of John Newell, former rancher of this community and of Irvine, who passed away at his home in Stockton on July 13. He was 65 years old. Mrs. Newell and her son and daughter, Lyle Newell and Miss Velda Newell, were visitors for several days recently at the home of the former's brother, Henry Hickman, and of her daughter, Mrs. Irene Cook, in El Toro.

Aaron Wilcox and daughter, Miss Gladys Wilcox, went to Long Beach Saturday to attend the annual Ohio picnic in Bixby park.

'Type,' Famous Dog, Again Quits Kennel

"Mal! That little doggie's gone again!"

That was the cry of reporters in the courthouse press room today, after another sudden disappearance of "Type," the little news hound and press room mascot, yesterday afternoon.

But if the reporters will only wait until the office of Sheriff Logan Jackson, they'll find "Type," safe as usual, but chained with a mighty chain, to an office desk.

According to Grace Hall, deputy of the office, a man dashed into the sheriff's office with "Type," and placed him on the counter. "Keep him in custody without bail," was said to have been the man's advice. Then the man disappeared. It was learned later, the dog-napper is acquainted with Earl Abbey, or at least it was so said after the coroner appeared at the sheriff's office on his rounds and nonchalantly inquired of the health of "Type."

Sheriff Jackson placed a chain with half-inch thick links about "Type's" neck and "Type" couldn't move. He'll probably be back at the "home port" sometime this afternoon or tomorrow.

FRANCE DEMANDS INCOME REPORTS

PARIS, Aug. 5.—(UP)—France has granted one month's grace to investors who, under the new law, will be required to report to tax authorities their real and personal property abroad, revenue bearing foreign credits, their participation in foreign enterprises and all revenues directly or indirectly earned abroad.

Failure to make accurate declaration of the specified holdings will subject the investor to confiscation of a sum equivalent to the assets concealed plus heavy fines and criminal prosecution.

HE PLAYED HAPPILY WITH HIS TOES, TALKING TO HIMSELF.

WONDERS WHY MOTHER SUD- DENLY BARGES IN SO EX- CITED WITH VARIOUS AUNTS.

LITENS NOT VERY INTERESTED, WHILE SHE TELLS THEM SHE JUST HEARD HIM SAY "DADDY" DISTINCTLY.

DOESN'T KNOW WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT EXCEPT THAT SHE IS COAXING HIM TO SAY SOME- THING.

SILENCE BEGINS TO GET PAWID, WITH EVERYBODY WAITING FOR HIM TO PERFORM.

NOW MOTHER HAS BEGUN AGAIN WITH HER "DADDY," ARTICULATING VERY PLAINLY.

GOOD GRACIOUS, THE AUNTS HAVE TAKEN IT UP, A WHOLE CHORUS OF "DADDY."

FEELS THAT HE CAN ONLY BEAR SO MUCH OF THIS SORT OF THING WITHOUT CRYING.

IS LEFT ALONE AT LAST AND GOES ON TALKING HAPPILY TO HIMSELF.

REALTORS SEEK UNDERPASS FOR LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 5.—Agitation for safe passage across Coast boulevard, U. S. highway 101, which bisects downtown Laguna Beach, was crystallized at Tuesday's meeting of the Laguna Beach Realty board. Roy W. Peacock, prominent realtor, was responsible for the motion introduced at the session, calling upon the city council and the city planning commission to take such steps as might be necessary to induce the State Highway commission to interest itself in the needs of Laguna Beach, insofar as safe passage for pedestrians is concerned.

George E. Thompson seconded the presentation of the request for safe passage across the bottleneck, along which thousands of cars travel hourly, as established by actual count.

Location of the proposed underpass is not stated, proponents of the measure having in mind the varying conditions existing at suggested cross-over points; Broadway, Ocean, and Forest avenues. The first three streets intersecting and complicating through traffic have all been suggested as logical points for the contemplated cross-over.

RADIO PRIEST TO TONE DOWN TALKS

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Vatican circles expressed reasonable confidence today that Father Charles E. Coughlin, the radio priest, would moderate the tone of his political utterances, at least during the presidential campaign.

Both Father Coughlin and his superior, Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit, it was said, are aware of the church's desire that he tone down his speeches.

The Vatican's attitude, it was emphasized, is not of a disciplinary nature, because Father Coughlin has not violated canon law. The bishop was advised to urge Father Coughlin "in a friendly manner" to confine his speeches as far as possible to religious topics, to avoid embarrassing the church.

Bazaar Planned By Island Group

BALBOA ISLAND, Aug. 5.—A colorful display of needlework, crocheted and knitted articles and other items of handicraft will be on display in the John Legg home at the intersection of Park avenue and Coral street, when the Balboa Island circle of the Woman's Aid society of Christ Church by the Sea holds its annual bazaar and food sale on Friday and Saturday.

The event is being held for the benefit of the society. Mrs. Nella Norton is president of the circle. Other members of the circle assisting Mrs. Norton in the project are the Mesdames A. J. Rutter, William Harper, B. E. Bartholomew, Mrs. Legg and Mrs. J. R. McClure.

Postal Receipts In Garden Grove Gain During July

GARDEN GROVE, Aug. 5.—Postal receipts for the month of July, 1936, showed a gain of $139.43 over receipts for the month of July, 1935, according to announcement made today by Postmaster Clair Head. Receipts for July, 1935, amounted to $320.43, while the same month this year receipts totaled $559.86.

MARJORIE FERRIN, J. T. RALSTON WED

GARDEN GROVE, Aug. 5.—Miss Marjorie Ferrin and Joseph T. Ralston, of Garden Grove, were united in marriage Monday at Grace Methodist parsonage. Dr. Floyd J. Seaman reading the beautifully impressive service. Floral decorations were of white stock and pink lilies.

A small group of relatives and intimate friends witnessed the ceremony. The bride wore a traveling suit of heavy sage green crepe with corsage of pink rose buds and white lilies and fern. The couple will spend their honeymoon motoring to San Francisco and other northern points.

Miss Ferrin has been a teacher in the Garden Grove school for several years and Mr. Ralston is with the State Highway department. They will make their home in Garden Grove.

BABY CLINIC SET FOR NEXT FRIDAY

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 5.—The Laguna Beach baby clinic, under the direction of Dr. Edward Lee Russell, of Santa Ana, assistant county health officer, will be open Friday at 1:30 o'clock in the basement of Community Presbyterian church. Many appointments have already been registered with Mrs. H. Y. Smith, who is in charge of arrangements. Hereafter, the clinic will meet on the first Friday of each month.

COSTA MESA CLUBS HOLD DINNER, RALLY

COSTA MESA, Aug. 5.—Costa Mesa Townsend clubs held a 6 o'clock dinner meeting in the social hall of the Community church last night, with a large number present. J. H. Walsh, president of club No. 1 presided. The NYA band of South Gate played several selections at the dinner, later leading a parade of members through the business section.

Following the parade a rally was held at the Newport Harbor Union High school. A number of talks were presented, including one by Harry Sheppard, Democratic candidate for congress.

Woman's Society Plans Luncheon

MIDWAY CITY, Aug. 5.—A luncheon is being given Thursday noon as a public affair at the Midway City Woman's clubhouse at 3300 E. 14th street, when the Midway City Community church, Mrs. Boyd Fury is chairman of the serving committee and will be assisted by five other society members.

ANNUAL EVENT IN BEACH CITY BIG SUCCESS

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 5.—The curtain will drop tonight on Laguna's fifth annual Festival of Arts, bringing to an end the season's most colorful event.

For the past six days, El Paseo street has been packed with visitors, many of whom have returned to witness the presentation of Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece, "The Last Supper," which has been produced each night as a climax to the evening's entertainment. The presentation was in charge of Roy M. Ropp, who with Mrs. Ropp created and directed the beautiful pageant.

So popular was the festival this year, that those in charge found it necessary to hold the event over for an additional two days. Hundreds of tourists and residents of Southern California have visited Laguna to enjoy the night presentation of the pageant and to view the 500 beautiful paintings now on display.

Suggestion were made yesterday that the pageant of masters be repeated at the San Diego exposition and at the coming Santa Barbara fiesta.

CAB DRIVER ADMITS EXTORTION ATTEMPT

MODESTO, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Sammy Blipus, 28, cab driver, waived preliminary hearing today when arraigned in justice court on a charge of extortion.

According to Charles and Frank Gerbo, night club operators, Blipus wrote them a letter demanding $100 under threats to tell a friend that the men were keeping their establishment open after 2 o'clock, the closing time for bars.

Corn Shortage To Effect Thousands

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The nation's corn crop suffered incalculable damage during the past week, the agriculture department reported today. Officials viewed this development seriously as corn had been depended upon for animal feed in areas where forage had been destroyed.

The Resettlement Administration announced $2,391,491 drought stricken families in 14 states depend upon it for relief. The administration said it must prepare to take over care of 125,000 more families, if necessary.

RESORT HOTEL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANN HAMILTON, pretty young secretary in a large business office, goes to a travel agency to make plans for her two-week vacation.

BILL WARE, travel bureau employee, persuades her to go to Lake Tahoe. Bill is attracted by Ann, but she gives him little thought.

Ann goes to the mountain resort and at first is lonely. Then she meets RALPH SPIEGEL, the head bookie, who tells her frankly he is not interested in girls. Ralph introduces Ann to JIMMY LAIRD, wealthy playboy. Jaime takes her to a dance at the fashionable Majestic Hotel and she is the belle of the occasion. She meets LEFTY POWDS, married but flirtatious.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

THE long, sleek roadster literally burned up the mountain roads. Ann clung to her seat at Jaime's side. Her face was wind-blown, her hair in disarray, as the car sped up the gradient on the Whiteface Mountain highway.

When they reached the top and parked on the spur of the mountain, they could see for a hundred miles across the moonlit, shimmering surfaces of a dozen lakes. Around them the crinkled peaks soared into moonlit heavens. It was a majestic sight.

"There you are, Duchess!" Jaime said, taking his hands from the wheel and making a sweeping gesture toward the mountains and rolling hills. "I've placed the whole world at your feet."

"But I don't want the world," Ann said simply. "At least—not all of it."

"Do you know, you are a curious type!" Jaime told her boyishly. "And I've known lots of girls."

"So I've been given to understand," Ann said.

"Tongues wagging again," he said ruefully. "Forch sitters, I suppose! That's the trouble with a resort hotel. Too many knitters who stay on the porch and talk. Why don't they get out, and see something like this?"

"That's what I wondered about you," Ann said.

"Go on. Tell me how wicked I am. I'm a good listener."

"Well, you dance all night. In the mornings you sit in a fat chair at the stock office, and watch ticker tape. In the afternoon—"

"I play the horses? Is that all?"

DIONNE NURSERY BANS SAD RHYMES

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe said today reading of nursery rhymes to the Dionne quintuplets probably would be confined for a few days to the more "cheerful" ones.

His decision resulted, he said, from the fearful intervention of Emile in the tale of Old Mother Hubbard and her bare cupboard. The quints were read the story by one of their nurses Monday night, and all except Emile heard of Mother Hubbard's dog quite calmly. Emile, however, was overcome by the tragedy of the hungry dog and went to bed, eventually to sleep, with her face tear-streaked.

Yesterday morning at breakfast the quints were served bacon. Emile left the table and soon returned carrying the nursery book opened at the picture of Mother Hubbard and her dog. She took a piece of bacon, placed it directly under the dog's nose and then, all smiles, finished her meal.

When Dr. Dafoe arrived at the nursery Emile showed him the bacon-smeared picture of the dog, and assured him, he said, in her own way that everything was all right. The dog enjoyed his meal.

A. F. L. TO ACT ON J. L. LEWIS UNIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor recessed shortly after noon today without taking final action on heresy charges against the John L. Lewis rebel unions. The council will reconvene at 2 p. m. to resume deliberations.

Dave Dubinsky, only CIO representative on the executive council, said as he left the session definite action probably would be taken by the federation this afternoon.

Party Enjoyed By Young People

TUSTIN, Aug. 5.—A merry house party was enjoyed recently by a group of young people, with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pankey as hosts at the Charles Artz cottage at Balboa. Bob Pankey was guest of honor. Dancing at the Rendezvous, swimming and boating were enjoyed.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pankey and son, Bob, were the Misses Barbara Kiser, Marjorie Kenyon, Marian Baxter, Dorothy Heil, Elaine McReynolds, LaVene Parks and the Messrs. Don Hart, Milford Dahl, Nolan Rasher, Drennan Ahern, Louis Tadlock, Hugh Plumb Jr., Richard Nisson and James Thompson.

Felony Charge Is Dismissed Today

A felony drunk driving charge against Sylvester Vasquez, Santa Ana, Mexican, whose car collided two weeks ago with a bicycle near Fourth and Ross, resulting in slight injury to two youthful bicycle riders, was dismissed by Judge Kenneth Morrison in Santa Ana justice court today on motion of Deputy District Attorney Clarence Sprague. Sprague said he would file a misdemeanor drunk driving charge against Vasquez to replace the one dismissed. It was reported evidence was insufficient to place the blame for the youth's injuries upon Vasquez, arrested by Motorcycle Officer B. A. Hershey.

CAUSE OF AUTOMOBILE WRECKS

We have often heard it explained that there were so many automobile wrecks in Southern California because of the percentage of old cars in use.

This explanation does not explain however, according to a survey made by the Automobile Trade Journal. The investigators studied the records of nearly 500 accidents which took place in the large eastern states in two closing months of 1935 and January, 1936. The investigation showed that the percentage of accidents involved automobiles of the old type compared with the percentage of the number of newer cars did not bear out the conclusion that old cars were the cause of the wreck. The cars made in the year 1925 had practically only one-third as many of the accidents in percentage as the average, while the 1935 cars had nearly twice as many accidents as the average percentage in use, would indicate.

Possibly the drivers of new cars are more reckless and drive faster than the users of the old cars which might account for the much greater number of accidents per car in new cars than old cars.

THE PRICE OF PROGRESS IS COMPETITION

Competition is the spark plug that has fired the intellects of man to produce a better product each year for less money. The last few years it has been proclaimed by those in high authority that things are different now and that we must have a planned scarcity. These cynics who believe that competition lowers the standard of living say that "competition means lower wages and since lower wages means less buying power, where does that get us in the long run?"

The planned economists are about 99% wrong in their question. Producing more and better goods for less money does not mean a reduction in wages; in fact, it means just the opposite.

Take the automobile, for instance. There are now employed 5,000,000 people directly and indirectly in the industry. This is twenty-five times more workers than were formerly employed in the wagon and buggy industry that the automobile industry practically put out of business.

Those who point out that the price of progress is competition inquire as to what would have happened in our automobile industry provided in the early stages of the industry a planned economy had been worked out with a small group of politicians having the power to tell the people what they could or could not produce. It was free competition in the automobile industry that spelled progress.

THE SURPLUS OF SOCIETY

The late Simon Patten, who wrote Economic Interpretation of History, used to urge in his theory of taxation that taxes should come from the "Surplus of Society."

He contended in his theory of dynamic economics that "the theory of taxation involving sacrifice and, hence, needs a moral basis originated at a time when the state was a mere military organization for the defense of society from foreign foes or to gratify national feelings by aggressive wars."

Patten contended that if the state were industrial rather than military in character, all taxes should be paid out of what he called "the surplus of society."

In other words, taxes, instead of being a sacrifice should add to the welfare and well-being of the citizen rather than be a sacrifice. This certainly is true.

The great trouble with the average voter is in his misinterpretation of what "the surplus of society" really is. It is the different interpretation of what the "surplus of society" is that has largely caused our confusion in taxation. It would seem logical that unearned increment, due to increase in population, is one of "the surpluses of society" that should be taxed.

The real "surpluses of society" are not factories, fertile farms, railroads, steamships, commercial buildings, schools and churches; these are not surpluses of society that are the necessities of society which enable people to receive higher wages and enjoy a higher living standard. "The surpluses of society" from which taxes should be paid, are that part of this world's goods which are being consumed by private citizens and do not greatly add to the health, intelligence and happiness of those who are consuming this wealth or to their posterity. These are "the surpluses of society" from which the support of the government should be largely secured. If the government is supported from these "surpluses of society" the result will be the maximum aggregate happiness to ourselves and our posterity.

The most practical way of supporting the government from the "surpluses of society", is to have a graduated tax on personal consumption and a graduated tax on unearned increment but no tax whatsoever on the production of wealth that is turned in to capital to raise the real wages of all the workers and to raise the standard of living of society as a whole.

MODERN EDUCATION CRITICIZED

John' Erskine, speaking before the summer session students at Columbia university, criticized much of our modern education for its passive quality. Dr. Erskine said "The deeper objection to culture, that is to the knowing of the best that has been said, is that it excuses us all from living if we merely contemplate the lives of other men."

The doctor contends that it is better to get some paints and canvas and try painting than to study the subject in books and art galleries; it is better for the student to write plays than to take a course in drama; better for him to dance than to listen to lectures on the aesthetics of the dance. It seems the tendency in modern education is to stuff students with merely second-hand knowledge; with what A. N. Whitehead has called "inert knowledge."

The chief use of knowledge of the past is to equip us adequately to live in the present.

The big problem of education, especially public education, is to economically instruct the use of the land; how we can learn to adjust ourselves to society; how we can perform some service well so that we have something to exchange with the other members of society for what service they can perform well. If private education can do this more economically than public education, it should be so done. If public education can teach people how to be special service to society, better than private, then it should be public.

With Dr. Studebaker attempting to create forums throughout the land, the question of public and private education will come, more than ever, before the public.

LABOR HELPING ITSELF

Upton Sinclair and Norman Thomas have both written to Governor Landon for a clarification of his stand on collective bargaining. This is a subject that should be thoroughly analyzed and discussed in this campaign. How collective bargaining can add to the general welfare of all workers, over a period of years, is a subject that should be given a great deal of study. It is a subject on which it is very easy to become confused because there is no doubt but what collective bargaining greatly adds to those being protected by the collective unit, while the protection lasts. This leaves the general impression that collective bargaining is beneficial and all that is needed is to have all the people in a collective unit.

But the advancement of the collective unit in the past has largely come from keeping others out of the unit or by the practice of seniority in work. This, of course, raises the wages for those working but it also raises the cost for those who are outside the unit—for those who are not working under the unit. If, of course, it raises the cost for those outside of the unit an amount equal, or more, than it helped those who were working in the unit, then it is of no value to the workers as a whole. It is, of course, easy to see that collective bargaining could temporarily raise the standard of living of all the workers, provided it had power enough to temporarily prevent any profits on capital. This, of course, would make possible a higher temporary standard of living for the working class. But, as the population increased, if there were no profits, or as the capital used in production became exhausted, and there were no profits, then there would be no incentive for individuals abstaining from consumption and using part of their production as capital. This, of course, would result in lowering the wages of all the workers each succeeding year.

The contest now going on between the Craft Union, which is a very capitalistic form of labor, and between the Industrial Union, which aims to take in all workers in industry, is a subject which will be much discussed in the immediate future.

We would like very much to read a complete explanation from both Roosevelt and Landon as to how they propose to administer, control and operate collective bargaining to add to the general welfare of all the workers. A complete explanation on the part of both candidates would certainly be appreciated.

Before Getting Overheated About The Candidates

Day By Day In Washington

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1936)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Just about a fortnight ago, an executive order came from the White House, supposedly putting all postmasters under the "merit system", and it was hailed far and wide as a "step in the right direction."

But unfortunately it now turns out that the order really means the entrenchment of politically appointed postmasters and does not call for the application of civil service reform of a permanent character.

The United States civil service commission has issued a memorandum in answer to inquiries. It says in part:

"5. Does the new system actually put the post office under civil service?"

"It will require an act of congress to eliminate the four-year term of office and eliminate the requirement of confirmation by the senate."

"6. Will this plan actually take politics out of the appointment of postmasters?"

"This question is answered under question 5."

"7. What will be the chances of present postmasters being reappointed under the new plan? Will their chances of continuing in office be better than under the old system?"

But while the order may not give any preference, it goes without saying that an incumbent postmaster will be a candidate for reappointment, and he can be reappointed for another four-year term without having to compete with anybody else in an examination. The "non-competitive" examination will be made up presumably of questions with which his four years of work should make him familiar, but he does not need to stack up against any competitor who might, on merit, be more efficient.

The new executive order is virtually an assurance to the Democratic postmasters that they will keep their jobs if Mr. Roosevelt is elected.

What has happened is this: There are about 14,000 first, second and third class postmasters appointed by the president, as distinguished from the fourth class postmasterships, which have been under civil service and do not require senate confirmation.

Of the 14,000 postmasters, all but about 500 have been appointed by President Roosevelt and they all become eligible for reappointment sometime in the next four years. If Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected, the postmasters can be reappointed without competitive examination. Nor did they have to take a competitive examination to get their original appointment.

What Mr. Landon could do is to issue an executive order declaring all the postmasterships vacant and requiring a competitive examination for everybody and permit the incumbent postmaster to take the examination, too. This would really insure a start of the merit system.

Under the recent executive order, there must be competitive examinations when vacancies occur, but it is not likely that many of the 14,000 Democratic postmasters will resign. Also, even if a vacancy occurs and the successful candidate in a competitive examination is eligible for appointment, this is not saying that the senator from his state will accept him for confirmation. In other words, the spoils system is as deeply entrenched as ever and the congress is just as much responsible for this as is the president.

Mr. Roosevelt's record on civil service undoubtedly will be much discussed during the campaign. It develops that, in no less than 12 instances, laws were passed by congress disregarding civil service requirements, and there is no record that Mr. Roosevelt threatened to veto the bills because they specifically excluded the appointments from civil service rules. Indeed, Mr. Roosevelt signed every one of the 15 measures.

The usual argument made by the New Dealers is that most of these were "emergency" agencies. There are, on the other hand, many agencies that have become and will become permanent. If there wasn't time for civil service examinations in many of the agencies, the argument is being made that there happened to be plenty of time for all the red tape of "clearance" through Democratic political committees before most of the appointments were made.

Latest figures show that on March 4, 1933, there were 578,231 federal employees outside the army and navy. Of this number, 11,070, or about 19 per cent, were not in the civil service category.

On June 30, 1935, the spoils system appointments had gone up from 15 to 36 per cent. The total number of employees was 719,440 and the number not subject to civil service was 264,176.

On June 30, 1936, the latest official figures available, there is a total of 824,259 federal employees, and as yet it has not been disclosed what percentage is outside the merit system. Using the 36 per cent figure of 1935, it would mean that there are about 277,733 jobs in the federal service that can be obtained, for the most part, through political influence.

One of the commonest excuses for ignoring the civil service is that "technical" help or "expertise" cannot be obtained through civil service methods. But a personnel system that picks even the "experts" on a merit basis and without political endorsements can be devised overnight if there is a real inclination to do so.

Governor Landon has promised that all positions under the key executives of cabinet or assistant secretary rank will be subject to the merit system. This pledge goes farther than any promise from Mr. Roosevelt. But neither party's pledge is worth very much as long as congressmen and senators are permitted by public opinion to make political appointments and to pass laws that disregard civil service rules. Many a senator and congressman gets his political organization for re-election free of charge by using the persons who are obligated to him for favors done. This has never been included specifically under corrupt practice legislation. There seems to

Little Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Me and pop was taking a walk before supper, and I said, G. pop, look at that, talk about a narrow escape.

Meaning some man on a bicycle almost getting caught between the curbstone and a automobile going passed.

Being a red headed man with a mad expression, and he put out one leg to keep from falling off his bicycle and then fell off anyway, saying to pop, Did you see that, were you a witness to that?

I saw everything except his license number and the general contour of his face, in case you'd like me to go to court in the matter, pop said, and the man said, These automobiles are the curse of the road, they don't think of anybody but themselves, and half the time they don't think at all. Just because they're sitting pretty inside a big car they imagine they can hide ruff shod over people that pay taxes just the same as they do. The prisons are full of people like that, he said.

Maybe they are, pop said. I live in a dangerous world, friend, especially if we spend a good part of our life on top of a bicycle, he said, and the red headed man said, You said it, stranger.

And he kept on going, and so did me and pop, and pretty soon there was a fierce noise, being some man in a automobile putting on his brakes just in time to keep from running into 3 boys on bicycles riding rite in front of him.

Being a little fat man with a worried look, saying to pop, Is that the limit or is that the limit? It's the limit, pop said, and the man said, These bicyclists are a public menace. I think just because they own a dinky little bike they're entitled to endanger their own lives and everybody else's. They're the curse of the road, that's what I've always said and that's what I stick to, he said.

And he kept on going mad, and pop said, You see, Benny, there are 2 sides to every story and life will remain a half told tale to you unless you listen to both.

Well G. pop, which one was rite? I said, and pop said, As an automobilist myself, I admit to a certain amount of prejudice and decline to be quoted.

Meaning he wouldn't say.

HERE AND THERE

According to the theory of S. Veselsky of the Astronomical Institute of Moscow many comets that appear in the night may be the product of eruptions from the surface of the planet Jupiter.

Weddings are being canceled less frequently in England. The number of abandoned marriages averaged 2000 annually until last year, when the figure dropped to 300.

There is plenty of time to regulate private contributions for political purposes but little curb on the immense political power of the spoils system machines.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

NEW ERA POLITICS

The reform politicians had the time of their lives heaping ridicule upon the heads of the business men and economists who heralded as a New Era the phase of speculation and installment buying which ended in the disaster of 1929.

Their indictment of the New Era Economists was, in the main, a sound indictment.

There was no New Era.

Values were being inflated so that statistics gave no true picture of the state of our economic health.

We are selling the future into slavery. That is to say, we are jacking prices of securities so far the actual and current earning power of the enterprises back of the securities that were, in effect, putting a mortgage upon earnings of some far future. And the whole business of installment buying was a draft on our future earnings.

When we ran into trouble and some leaders, still clinging to the New Era delusion, kept telling us that prosperity was just around the corner, the scorn and sarcasm and withering ridicule that the reform politicians leveled at the business men and economists knew no bounds.

Then came the next step in the tragedy-comedy.

The reform politicians got the chance to do the job they had damned the business men and economists for not doing.

What did they do?

They simply substituted a New Era Politics for the New Era Economics.

And today it would take a microscope to tell the difference between the two.

The New Era Politicians are undertaking to create wealth out of thin air. They seek to create employment by lavishing money on enterprises that do not give to the millions the added goods and services they want for a higher standard of living, enterprises that do not go on adding to the nation's wealth, enterprises that are not themselves taxable and so add continuously to the tax burden. They mortgage the future by endless borrowings. They go through the motions of adding to the nation's wealth and then boost prices to a new high that more than absorbs every benefit that better wages have brought.

The whole show is done with mirrors just as the hocus pocus of the economic New Era was conducted.

And the reform politicians now cry that Utopia is just around the corner as the business men and economists of the New Era cried that prosperity was just around the corner.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

SUMMER BEDTIME

"And does it not seem hard to you—" Stevenson's plea for the little child who hates to leave his play and go to bed in the clear summer evening just because the clock calls Time. The day is all too short for play even when the sunlight stretches into the long days of summer.

Then, to make it worse, came daylight saving. Seven o'clock is dark enough of winter nights to make a light very welcome. In summer time the other way, it is still daylight, the birds are still hopping on the tree, the grown-ups' feet are still going past the window where the tossing rebel listens longingly. By and by the strain is too much and there are wails for a drink, for another drink, for a little coolness, for something forgotten, for a good-night from grandpa, Mary, and the dog. Mothers grow desperate, and as a last measure of defense since the prisoner. "Not another word or—"

It is plain something must be done about it. There is not much sense in sending a child to bed who protests so heartily that he does not sleep until after the time when he is usually deep in the unconscious. Nor can he be allowed to stay up too long night after night because that robs him of rest and growth. But constant irritation about sleeping time robs him too. Couldn't there be some sort of compromise with summer and daylight saving?

Try out some scheme that lets the little one stay up a little longer, say fifteen minutes each night, he to watch the clock. Or even one night a week. On very warm nights when the sleeping room is hot and close, and the dark is filled with the murmur of voices and the clink of ice in glasses, perhaps a stay of fifteen minutes to half an hour might be allowed.

This can be done because we usually let the younger children rest for a time after luncheon. We usually allow them to undress and wear only light garment while they lie quietly for a time to gain poise for the demands of the long afternoon. A child who has had this quiet time, who has relaxed and rested and feels refreshed by it can stay up a little longer in the evening. The thought of this privilege will induce him to take the rest he needs so much. When we show our willingness to meet the children's difficulties with sympathy and understanding, when we accept their complaints as worthy of our attention and actually make an effort to help them, they in turn are more willing to listen to us and to accept what we decide is best for them. It does a parent no harm in the eyes of the children to show himself approachable and kindly, even amenable. It is the experiences that children have with their parents in such matters as bedtime that sets their relationship for years to come.

25 Years Ago Today

AUGUST 5, 1911

Six hundred and fifty tons of beets were sliced yesterday in the first day's run of the newly opened Anaheim Sugar factory. The season will continue for 100 days. The first bag of sugar produced yesterday afternoon was pronounced by Manager Hadsell, to be equal if not superior, to any in the country.

The handsome residence and fine ranch on East First street, recently transferred by Frank Monaghan to a Los Angeles trust company, has been sold to E. D. Burge of Bakersfield for $50,000. The new owner is a wealthy oil operator of Bakersfield, two of whose six children are attending Hollywood Seminary. He and his family will be given possession on August 20.

Glenn L. Martin will make flights next week to qualify for an international aviator pilot license. Flights will be from the Irvine ranch near the south end of Main street, witnessed by officials delegated to take the tests. Martin will use a new biplane just completed yesterday and moved today to the field. It is a trifle lighter than the two he has been flying but the added curve to the wings give more efficiency he states. There are now seven flying machines in Santa Ana and an eighth will be added in a few days.

Editor Register:—Your splendid article of July 20 presented the facts as they are. It should be instrumental in clarifying the erroneous notions that high wages are the basic principle in restoring prosperity.

We are all prone to be more or less one-sided. We should be sufficiently broadminded to see the obstacles and disadvantages of the other side as well as of our own. If the employee expects sympathy and cooperation from his employer, the latter has a right to expect the same from his employee.

Most of us agree that capital is indispensable for the well being of a community and a nation. If this is true then we must concede the fact that capital should have its fair share of profit. This is necessary not merely for the purpose of sustaining itself on a solid financial basis, but also for the purpose of expansion and development of industry and business. It in turn enables industry to promote skillful labor and to pay higher wages for efficient work.

These last three years capital, business and industry have been curtailed by abnormal taxation and the regimentation of the New Deal. Take for instance one of our local corporations, the Southern California Edison company. What the government demands in taxation is outrageous. Consequently they have been obliged to curtail the dividends of their stockholders, and are unable to lower the rates for home consumption of electricity. Nor are they able to expand thus providing for a greater number of employees, or an increase of their wages.

The government is to blame for this lack of initiative. It is due to headless piling up an unsumountable national debt; by squandering it on an all absorbing bureaucracy and on idle and shiftless workers. The almighty dollar set afoot by a shiftless government is of more value to the masses than true patriotism and the preservation of individual initiative. If the New Deal should continue in power another four years the United States of North America would no longer be the home of the Noble Free. Our national song "America" would be out of place in a country where the New Deal, a follower of Hitlerism, Fascism, Communism rules supreme.
